Stan and Dolores Kenny, then and now

Couple to celebrate 50th

The children of Stan and Dolores Kenny of Goodland are requesting a card shower for their parents, who are celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday, Sept. 14. The couple married Sept. 14, 1958 in Goodland.

The couple's children and grandchildren include Bob and Dawn Mayer of Ft. Collins, Colo., and their children Danielle, Leah and Weston; Lowell and Becki Carpenter of Brewster and their children, Ashley and Amy and Jason and Andrea Kenny of Ulysses and children, Kali, Koy and Cami.

Anniversary greetings may be sent to Stan and Dolores Kenny at 6565 Road 25, Goodland, Kan. 67735.

Fish feed slated Sept. 14

Trinity Lutheran Church in Colby is sponsoring a Wisconsin-style Fish Feed from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 14.

The feed is planned at the church, 855 E. Fifth St. and is free-will offering.

All proceeds will benefit the Orphan Grain Train, a relief organization for human needs worldwide, said Velma Rasmussen, one of the organizers.

The Orphan Grain Train, she said, incorporates volunteers from across the U.S. using their own cars, trucks, horse-trailers, and 18-wheelers to distribute needed materials to people worldwide in crisis.

Donated materials are shipped from the organization's warehouses in steel containers the size of semi-truck trailers to Eastern Europe, Africa, Mexico and Central America. Distribution is then dispersed to hospitals, orphanages, old people's homes, schools, soup kitchens and more.

The Orphan Grain Train has been in service for 15 years and was founded by Rev. Ray S. Wilke of Grace Lutheran Church in Norfolk, Neb.

To learn more about the organization, Colby church members are encouraging people to attend the fish feed.

By giving a cash gift, people in need can be helped, she said.

For questions, call Trinity Lutheran Church at 462-3497, or call the Orphan Grain Train Kansas office at (785) 543-5717.

Two credit cards good idea when traveling

Dear Heloise: My suggestion is to carry two (different type — Heloise) major credit cards. When in a foreign country recently, I found an airport desk that would accept only one type, and I had the other. It was quite an annoyance. — Tom Cronin, Houston

Good advice, Tom. It's not only an annoyance, but it could be a real bother if you can't use a credit card for a meal, hotel or shopping. — Heloise

Laundry hint

Dear Heloise: Here is my favorite laundry hint: Conspicuously mark the tag on each item of clothing to indicate its washing requirements. For example, a big "W" for warm water, "G" for gentle, "I/O" for inside out, etc.

This will keep you from having to find and read the small-print instructions on each item. Also, keep a permanent marker wherever you sort laundry to mark any new items that come through. — Jeremy Stein, Rochester, N.Y.

Bathroom cleaning

Dear Heloise: I love your column. My bathrooms are small, and using a mop or broom to sweep is awkward.

I've found that dampening a paper towel or two and using them to wipe up the floor, register, bathroom scale and heater makes a quick, effective dusting job. It just takes a minute or two. — Marcy Holland, Kane, Pa.

Curtains

Dear Heloise: I remember an article a long time ago about rinsing curtain sheers in Epsom-salt water to make them stiff. Will you please reprint this information for me? — Janet H., via e-mail

This is an easy way to make laundered sheer curtains crisp again. Fill the sink with cool water and mix in 1 cup of Epsom salts until they are completely dissolved.

Put the curtains in the sink and make sure they are completely saturated.

Be careful not to wring or twist, but dip in and out, and then hang them to drip-dry. Once dry, your crisp curtains are ready to be rehung without ironing. — Heloise

Kitchen pantry and cabinets

Dear Heloise: I have succeeded in keeping my kitchen pantry and cabinet straight by taking a snapshot of each cabinet after cleaning and reorganizing.

Each photo is taped inside the cabinet door, and whoever puts away the items knows where they go. It also helps when trying to find things. — Connie from Wisconsin

Cold bathing suit

Dear Heloise: With summer swimming, I found that putting on a wet, cold bathing suit for the second swim of the day was uncomfortable for my kids and me. A solution was to soak the suit in warm water, wring it out, and then put on a warm bathing suit. — Sheldon Zablou, San Diego

Cat-box liner bags

Dear Heloise: Here is my favorite cat hint: Instead of buying specialized cat-box liner bags, I just use kitchen trash bags (13-gallon size) I found that the cat doesn't scratch through the thick bags, and they are much cheaper than buying cat-box liners. — Elizabeth, via e-mail

Elizabeth, you're right — this can save your household budget a few dollars. Thanks for sharing this money-saving pet hint. — Heloise
