Career fair planned

Colby Community College will hold a free Non-Traditional Occupations Fair from 9:30-11:30 a.m. Thursday, April 23, in the Northwest Kansas Cultural Arts Center. Representatives from 12 of the college's programs will be available to provide information about the college and applications.

These programs include nursing, physical therapist assistant, therapeutic massage therapy, dental hygiene, criminal justice, communications, business administration technology, business management, veterinary technology, agriculture business, horse production and beef production/feedlot certification.

Everyone is invited to attend this event, which will include short presentations by representatives from the nursing, veterinary technology, computer and criminal justice program as well as information booths. Students currently enrolled in each program will be available after the speakers.

"This event is designed to increase awareness of these occupations for high school and non-traditional perspective students," said physical therapist assistant director Pat Erickson. "It will be very student-oriented, with representatives from each area, as well as printed materials available for those who attend."

For information, contact the Admissions Office at 460-4690.
