Teens get lesson on driving laws

driver's license law, he added. That makes South Dakota the last holdout among the 50 states.

The Legislature approved a seat belt law effective July 2007 that made not wearing a seat belt a "primary" violation for teens 14 to 17. This means teens can be pulled over for not wearing a seat belt and given a ticket. Adults still face a secondary violation on seat belts, he said, which applies only if they are stopped for something else.

This law can have an impact on drivers 18 and older, the trooper added, even though current law doesn't allow an officer to pull over drivers over 18 solely for not wearing a seat belt. In fact, he said, adults are only required to wear a seat belt when they are in the front seats.

Under the new law, though, an adult driver can be pulled over because some of his or her teen-age passengers are not wearing a seat belt, he said. And if they are, they will also get a ticket if they are not wearing a seat belt, said Hileman.

Teenagers can be fined $60 for breaking the seat belt law and adults $30, plus court costs, he said.

Hileman warned the students that some time in the future, he and his fellow officers will be watching students going to and from school on certain days to make sure everyone was wearing their seatbelts, drivers and passengers. He said he hopes he doesn't have to give anybody a ticket, but if students are not wearing a seat belt, they will get one.

Hileman said the son of the police chief in Arma told him he had saved his life. The son said he was standing by while Hileman was talking to his father about the importance of wearing a seat belt. He left five minutes later and got into a major wreck when another driver blew through a stop sign on a paved county road and slammed into his truck at an intersection, said Hileman.

"He told me he was a 50/50 buckler until he thought about me coming to his home and telling his wife and family that he wouldn't be coming home again," the trooper said.

Hileman said the collision caused the man's truck to flip over several times, but because he had his seat belt on, he suffered only a few cuts and bruises.

During the lecture, he showed the students videos of crashes where the drivers had not worn a safety belt. In several, he said, the driver was ejected through a window because they didn't have a seat belt on.

Cat, dog clinic offer vaccinations

The Rexford City Council will be sponsoring a vaccination clinic for cats and dogs from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. Thursday, April 23, at the City Building.

If your pet's vaccinations are due, this is a good chance to have it done right here in town. This service will be provided by Oakley Veterinary Service.

A citywide cleanup has been scheduled for the weekend of May 15 and 16. In keeping with the city ordinances, the city is again pursuing and enforcing residential cleanup regulations during the spring and summer seasons. The ordinances address overgrown weeds, abandoned and untagged vehicles and disposal of trash or debris.

Congratulations to Lee and Ruth Luna, who will be celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday. Cards can be sent to them at Box 112, Rexford, Kan., 67753.

Guests during the Easter week-

Country music group to perform

The country music group Little Texas will be performing at the Colby Community Building at 7 p.m. Friday.

The members of the group began their careers as young men in their early 20s determined to succeed in the country music field.

The band crisscrossed the country for three years while writing songs destined to change the sound of modern country music.

The group's second album sold more than 3 million copies and spawned three No. 1 singles, "What Might Have Been," "God Blessed Texas" and "My Love."

They captured CMT and Billboard awards and a Radio and Country award.

The group is known as the hardest working band in country music, playing more than 300 shows a year without a bus, a driver or tour support from a label.

The members dropped out of sight for a while to raise families, but returned to the road in 2007 with the same energy and talent.

Tickets for Friday's show cost $25 each and are available at the door the day of the show.

Discount coupons for $10 are available through area businesses, including: Peoples State Bank, Taylor Motors, Colby Implement, MC Auto, Vanderbilt's Twisters Bar and Grill, Bosselmanns Travel Center, Farmers and Merchants Bank, Plum Creek Clothing, Horlacher's Jewelry, High Plains Printing, Oakley Implement, Tom's Electronics (Oakley), and Dr. Gooden's Office of Optometry (Oakley and Hoxie), and Hoxie Office Supply.
