

Rotary Club

Colby Rotary Club met August 18, at Colby Community College with 28 members and guests in attendance. Guests included Deana Smith, Andrew Toth, Jayson Woolfer and Sacha Sanguinetti. Toth presented the club with a banner from the Eutin, Germany Rotary Club.

Dr. LaDonna Regier and Marilyn Unger were inducted into club membership, conducted by membership chairman Mike Tubbs.

Melany Wilks gave the program featuring an overview of the services provided to the community by Pioneer Memorial Library. She reported a 10 percent increase in materials being checked out and noted that 72 percent of the library's patrons are from Colby, 20 percent from Thomas County, and 8 percent from outside the county. Wilks gave members a tour of the library's website featuring the online catalog and reservation capabilities along with the research resources available at the Home-work Center.

Nick Wells was the Roto-Lotto winner.

The club meets at noon each Tuesday in the Student Union at Colby Community College.

Colby jeweler attends show

Colby jeweler Jeff Horlacher joined store owners from around the country at the Fall 2009 Retail Jewelers Organization Buying Show in Covington, Ky.

The twice-a-year show provides independent stores such as Horlacher Jewelers with a chance to talk to industry leaders, view the latest trends and buy jewelry at pre-negotiated prices. The ability to purchase at these prices allows Horlacher to pass savings on to their customers, while offering the latest styles and trends.

"We attend the RJO buying show to stay on top of what is going on in the industry," said Jeff Horlacher. "We are able to network with jewelers from across the country, but more importantly, we take advantage of the competitive pricing benefit with our membership in RJO. These prices allow us to compete with chain stores in our market and offer our customers the highest quality products."

This year's show, themed "Keep on Shining," offered seminars and continuing education opportunities on topics including effectively marketing in a down economy, promoting leadership and managing sales and inventory.

"Though it's the reason we are all here, the RJO show isn't just about the jewelry" said Mary Peterson, chief executive officer of the group. "We bring together the best vendors and jewelers in the industry to give them the opportunity to network and discuss best business practices. We want all of our members to have the tools to be good business people in each of their communities."

The organization was founded in 1966 by a group of independent jewelers who joined together to command better vendor prices by buying collectively. Since that time, it has added hundreds of members, support programs and marketing services while remaining owned by its jeweler members. For information, go to www.rjomembers.com.

Jeff Horlacher looked over the displays at the buy show he recently attended in Kentucky.

To see some of their new purchases, stop by Horlacher's store at 442 N. Franklin in Colby or online at horlacherjewelers.com.

Art Club

The High Plains Art Club met at the Colby United Methodist Church on Aug. 11, for their annual salad luncheon.

President Marlene Carpenter called the meeting to order. Treasurer Shirley Baker announced that the Thomas County Community Foundation board would meet on Monday, Oct. 5, at City Limits. It was suggested that someone go to represent the club.

Communications were passed around from other towns. Brown passed out applications for entries in the McCook art show.

Bev Kern announced that the club would not have a show at the museum until January 2011.

Carpenter reported that Oberlin artist Anna Seebler Shaw agreed to give a watercolor workshop in Colby in October, date, place and fee to be determined.

The members had each painted a southwestern painting to display. The women enjoyed figuring out who painted each painting.

After the salad luncheon, by hostess Kern, program chairman for the day, Brown, showed the DVD, "Incredible Light and Texture in Watercolor," by James Toogood.

Next meeting will be at 10 a.m. Tuesday, Sept 8, at the church. Margaret Denneler will be program chairman and Kern will be hostess.

All area artists are invited. - Marj Brown
