Ex-Colby High star player rebounds on college team

By Debbie Schwanke

Attending college right after graduating from high school at age 18 did not work out for Colby native Corey Woofter.

Although he went to Colby Community College for a short time after graduation, Woofter left classes and worked for several years in the welldrilling and grain businesses. He returned in 2008 with a new focus and attitude about education.

In addition to being a student in the entrepreneurship program, he is taking classes in hospitality management and history. That would be more than enough for most "nontraditional" (older) students, but Woofter added even more to his schedule when he decided to try out for the Trojans men's basketball

"I was playing in a men's league on Sundays," said Woofter. "Parker McKee and a couple of others encouraged me to try out for the team. I quit smoking on March 1, started daily training and decided if I was going to do this, I was going to go all out and be a significant contributor to the team. I didn't want to just sit on the bench.'

Woofter did more than just make the team. At the age of 27, he's a starter for the Trojans.

"We are so proud of Corey Woofter for all he has accomplished and overcome to be where he is today," said men's coach Dustin Pfeifer. "Corey exemplifies exactly what we want our basketball program to be about on and off the court - character, hard work and pride. He is a great person, a great leader and has a very bright future ahead of him."

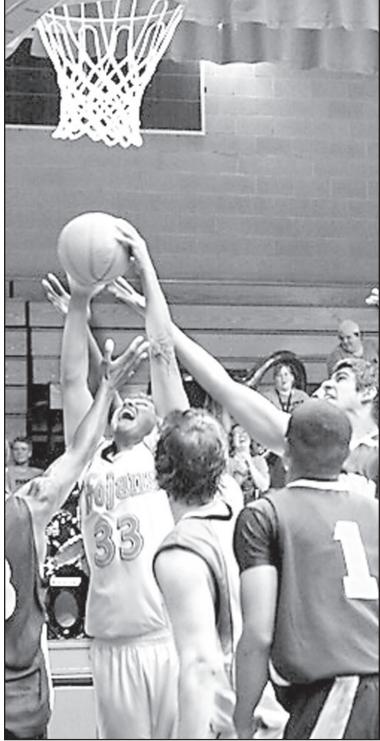

It took some work to earn his spot on the team, Woofter said.

"I started lifting weights for an hour each day and running at least a mile six times a week," said Woofter. "I've lost 35 pounds since last March. It wasn't easy. I had to push myself through the 'wall' several times ....'

Woofter and Pfeifer played on the 1999 Colby High School basketball team, which won a state champion-

"Coach Pfeifer is great," said Woofter. "He may be one of the youngest coaches in the conference, but he and assistant coaches Shane Stover, Rusty Grafel and Ross Smiley are the greatest coaches in the Jayhawk (Community College Conference). I've learned so much from them.'

Woofter said he was working in Kansas City as a superintendent at a 4.2-million-bushel grain elevator when he decided to return to was a line cook and learned so much

"I was making a comfortable living and was on track to be a manager," said Woofter. "I didn't make the decision to return to school for economic reasons, I just decided I didn't want to do that for the rest of my life. I plan to continue with my education and maybe even earn my doctoral degree in history. I'm not sure where I'll transfer after Colby, but plan to be here through 2011."

Woofter had a paid internship last summer at the Stanley Hotel in Estes Park as part of the hospitality management program taught by Sue Mardock.

"It was great," said Woofter. "I from the chefs. They made work a lot of fun, and Estes Park was a wonderful place to work during the summer heat."

The next home game for the basketball team will be at 8 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 5, at the Community Building.

"We are fighters," said Woofter. "Nobody gives up on our team. The attitude and commitment is obvious in our coaching staff and from every member of the team.

"I think we'll have a great deal of success this year, and I'm proud to be a part of the program.'

Joint effort improves horse arena at Colby Community College farm

The arena at the Colby Community College farm has a new look, thanks to the joint efforts of several individuals and businesses.

Dean of External Affairs Barry Kaaz coordinated renovation of the arena, which is used by the college's equestrian team.

"PAR Electric donated poles to place around the perimeter of the arena to hold sand." said Kaaz. "Jim Fellhoelter donated 254 cubic yards of sand valued at approximately "Workers for Thomas County hauled the sand at a reduced rate. Farm manager Adam Frish spread the sand and moved power poles to their final locations.

In addition, equestrian team coach Shanda Mattix and team eral programs, including horse and public.
