Make your ideas into reality

"I have an idea" is sputtered off by someone you know. Time goes on, and nothing hap-

Why didn't the idea come into existence? Any number of reasons could be responsible for its failed pursuit. Possibly the reason is the person became busy and forgot or the idea really wasn't good enough to keep them pursuing it. Maybe there was someone that was a real downer in the pursuit of the idea, crushing any hopes of accomplishment.

When one has an idea, it is important to get behind it and see what you can do to make it happen. Otherwise, it may not see daylight.

This idea could have been the one that helped get another step closer to a particular disease's cure or could have helped senior citizens to be able to accomplish a task they couldn't in the

it to our fullest. This brings up a quote from a former rap star, Joseph Simmons, also known as Rev Run, "Your vision is only as strong as your commitment to pursue it."

to make sure the dream is continual. So, if you have an idea, don't just present it to someone, pursue it, and give the commitment it takes to make sure it happens.

Along with that, you must count the cost of your idea. How will it affect your relationships? The relationship with God. The relationship with your friends. The relationship with your spouse and children. The relationship with your other family.

There is so much to think about when an idea comes about. However, that should not stop you from pursing your idea. To have an idea should not stop with an idea. You should think about how you can pursue it; you never know what will come about if you do not attempt to pursue your idea.

So, the question is – What are your ideas?
