Unlike prior years, lab results will not be sent to the person's medical provider and planners are encouraging people to pick them up at the expo to receive additional explanation and allow for questions to be answered. Sessions to explain laboratory values will be held the morning of the expo at 8:30, 9:30 and 10:30 a.m.

Some screenings require fasting; contact Jeanene Brown at the Citizens Medical Center regarding the reduced-price options at 460-4850.

In addition to the aforementioned screenings, other tests that will be offered include screenings for skin cancer, oral cancer, vision and hearing, colorectal and tests for respiratory assessment, balance, posture and blood pressure. Cost for these tests, and more, are included in the $5 entry fee.

Stroke Detection Plus, a non-affiliated company of the expo, will be available by appointment only to offer stroke, vascular

"The tests and screenings have always been a staple for the expo, but this year we've added fitness classes, nutrition talks and a scavenger hunt with prizes, which are encompassed under the new Healthy Lifestyle Expo title," explained Diann Gerstner, expo volunteer and Family and Consumer Science expert at Kansas State University Research and Extension office in Colby.

'Starting at 9 a.m. in the Fireside Lounge at the college, participants can try out new fitness exercises, or they can just watch," said Gerstner. "Representatives from Nicole's School of Dance, Ashly's Dance Center and the Recreation Department will show off some of their services for fitness. Courtney and I will also provide answers to popular questions in a Q&A session at 9:30 a.m."

"We want people to learn more," stressed McCartey. "There are so many options in the and osteoporosis screenings, as well. Call area, for all age ranges, that many people are

A scavenger hunt will finish up the expo, which will reward participants with prizes for visiting with all of the vendors.

"We have a lot of businesses that will be available to teach people how to lead a healthier life and showcase their services," said Gerstner. "The scavenger hunt is a new feature to the expo and there are some great health-related prizes that have been donated.'

Prizes include free massages, punch cards to attend fitness classes, memberships to gyms, cash and more.

"To be entered in the drawing to win a prize, participants must attend a class, turn in their exam evaluations and visit with the booths," said Gerstner.

Proceeds from the expo will benefit community wellness programs and activities. To learn more about the expo, visit www.thomascountywellness.org.

· Discussed how to provide medical services at the Colby Community College rodeo this weekend. Emergency Medical Services is understaffed and having difficulty finding available volunteers. The commissioners approved an increase in wages for the event to entice local volunteers and decided to look outside the county for volunteers if local medical technicians are still uninterested.

New transition courses for certified emergency medical training classes were also discussed as well as the need to hire additional

• Heard Ruth Lang and Jerry Michaud from Developmental Services of Northwest Kansas give a presentation on the organization's annual report. Michaud thanked commissioners for giving financial support, especially since their budget had recently been cut $105,000. He said they currently have a list of 150 people awaiting assistance in northwest Kansas and that the typical wait is roughly five years.

The next regular meeting of the Thomas County Commissioners will be at 9 a.m. on Monday in the Thomas County Courthouse. The public is welcome to attend.
