

Time for fall enrollment

DEBBIE SCHWANKE/Colby Community College

Colby Community College student Brock Roemer of Colby consulted with biology instructor Heidi Bulfer while enrolling for fall classes. No classes were held on Wednesday to allow students time to meet with advisors, prepare a schedule and enroll in summer and fall courses.

Colby student elected to head Circle K district

Colby Community College student Roger Agnew has been elected district governor for Kansas of the Circle K organization.

Agnew, a freshman from Haxtun, Colo., was elected at the western district conference earlier this month on the Kansas State University campus in Manhattan.

Circle K International, sponsored by Kiwanis International, is a worldwide collegiate community service, leadership development and fellowship organization. It has more than 12,600 members in 500 clubs in 17 countries.

Agnew is majoring in radio broadcasting at the college.

"The CCC Circle K organization is committed to contributing to the community and becoming the next generation of community-minded leaders," he said. "Our club has assisted with Middle School days on campus, the Genesis-Thomas County food project and the Sacred Heart School carnival this year."

Agnew will be district governor for one year. He is the son of Michele and Randy Lundgren of Haxtun.

African acrobats to appear in Hoxie for arts association

The Kenya Safari Acrobats present a spectacle for the eyes, ears and the heart. Death-defying stunts, comedy, audience participation and heart-pounding music combine to create a production that will have all ages on the edge of their seats.

This family show is coming to present a spine-tingling production at the Hoxie High School Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. next Monday, presented by the Western Plains Arts Association.

The 10-member group hails from the heart of Africa. The members learned acrobatics as children on the beaches of Kenya, many hoping to break free from an impoverished country. Now they serve as artistic ambassadors for their country as they travel the globe. They have traveled to Tanzania, the U.S., Mexico, Canada, and Japan and have performed at the White House, Disneyland, Six Flags, the Super Bowl, for MGM Entertainment and for a number of National Basketball Association teams.

Admission to the performance is by Western Plains season ticket or at the door, adults $20 and students $10.

Learn to be 4-H judge

Anyone interested in learning to serve as a county fair judge is invited to attend 4-H judge's training from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, March 31, at the Graham County Fairgrounds in Hill City.

The workshop cost is $10, and will include a variety of project break out sessions, where participants may choose an area on which to concentrate, a crash course on judging and lunch.

Participants may choose one of two in-depth training sessions. Karen Blakeslee, food science, will be offering in-depth Foods and Food Preservation training. Poultry specialist Scott Beyer and fair judge Courtney Kunze will provide in-depth poultry training. Or participants may opt to take two different shorter break-out sessions: arts and crafts, clothing construction, space tech (including rockets, robots, global positioning systems, astronomy), photography, horticulture and fiber arts.

Forms are available at the Thomas County Extension Office, 350 S. Range, Suite 16, or register online at docs.google.com/spreadsheet/viewform?for mkey=dGdjazAxNXNFeHpJeUM4TktiZGwyN3c6MQ.

Participants are asked to pre-register and turn in the registration fee to the Extension office by Friday.

For questions call 460-4582.

Juried art show to be in May

Members of the Colby High Plains Art Club plan their first juried amateur art show for Friday to Sunday, June 8 to 10, in the gymnasium of the Heartland Christian School, 1995 W. Fourth St., Colby.

Money prizes will be awarded for first and second places in oils, watercolors, acrylics, pastels and charcoal, graphite and colored pencil, mixed media, sculpture and ceramics. Ribbons only will be awarded for the People's Choice and the Judges Merit awards.

Artists must be in high school or older. A fee of $15 will be charged for every two entries, with no limit on number. Every effort will be made to sell works designated for sale. The club will take 20 percent of the sale price.

Each artist or their representative must deliver and pick up their work. All paintings must be wired to hang. Final date for entries is Friday, May 25.

For information or a brochure, contact: Marj Brown, 285 W. Cedar St., Colby, Kan. 67701, or call (785) 462-3515.
