75¢

FREE PRESS

Monday

April 9, 2012 Volume 123, Number 56 Serving Thomas County since 1888

City agrees to help build pool storage

By Kayla Cornett

Colby Free Press kcornett@nwkansas.com

The Colby City Council looked Tuesday at the design for a proposed storage building at the Colby Aquatic Center which would ing will be a wood-framed steelbe used by the Colby Swim Club during the summer and by the city the rest of the year.

Swim Club Co-presidents Shari Oren and Laura Rush and Vice asked if they were planning on President Selena Catlin, attended, along with Todd Zurcher, a representative of Morton Buildings, hoping to get an OK from the council to build the structure.

Councilman Tim Hutfles asked how this building would affect the planned walking trails around the new pool and water park. City Manager Carolyn Armstrong said the Thomas County Healthy Communities Coalition, the group planning the trails, knows about the building.

Hutfles then asked if the city would be doing the dirt work and concrete for the building. Armstrong said the Norton firm would take care of the footing but the city will be in charge of pouring the floor. Zurcher said the buildsided structure. Oren said the club wanted to use steel to keep maintenance low.

Councilman Mark Beringer completing the project this season, because he thought the city was looking to put it in the 2013 budget.

Armstrong said that was the original plan, but the club proposed doing it this year and the city still has $6,000 in the capital improvement fund that was for cleaning at the old pool, so she figured they could use that money for the concrete.

See "CITY," Page 2

TULSA (AP) – Two Oklahoma men suspected in a shooting rampage that left three people dead and terrorized Tulsa's African-American community appeared in court today and had bond set at Florida case held

Principal Larry Gabel (above) introduced the Colby High senior honored by the KU Alumni Association on Wednesday at a dinner in Oakley. Show with him are four of the 10 (from left), Morgan Bell, Emilea Finley and Katera Harter. Madison Gawith stood behind Finley. Superintendent Janci Mills (below) talked about Brewster High's lone representative, Kasey Hoyt.

KU honors seniors at dinner

By Steve Haynes

s.haynes @ nwkansas.com

Ten Colby High seniors were among 59 students honored by the Kansas Honors Program cials called to say the universiat a dinner Wednesday in Oakley. Also on the list were one rence and probably couldn't land Brewster High senior and two in Colby or Oakley anyway. from Golden Plains High School in Rexford. the University of Kansas Alum- ter of ceremonies. She asked ni Association, honors students Jeff Mason, a Goodland lawyer across Kansas who make up the and KU law grad, to fill in for top 10 percent of their graduat- the scheduled speaker, Dr. Don ing classes. The dinner in Oak- Steeples, a professor of geophysley, held at the Northwest Kan- ics and former deputy provost of sas Educational Service Center the university, who grew up in across from the courthouse, was one of 41 put on by the association The program, begun in 1971, honors top students regardless of alumni programs for the associatheir plans for higher education tion, who was to have presented or family ties. Many of the students said they would be attending Kansas State University or another school, though several said their plans included KU. Students get a certificate and a copy of Webster's New College dictionary. Several of the superintendents and principals ac-Colby Free Press companying the senior recalled getting their dictionaries in the early years of the program.

Alumni volunteers had to take over the program after KU offity's plane was fogbound in Law-Sherrie Wiedeman of Colby was the regional chair for the The program, sponsored by dinner and the designated maswestern Kansas.

more than $9 million each.

Jake England, 19, and Alvin Watts, 32, appeared via closed-circuit television from jail. Both are being held on suspicion of three counts of first-degree murder, two counts of shooting with the intent to kill and one count of possession of a firearm in the commission of a felony. They will be formally charged later.

Neither man had an attorney present. The judge set bond at $9.16 million apiece and scheduled their next appearance for April 16.

Police have identified both as white, while all five victims in the early Friday shootings were black. Police and the FBI cautioned that it was too early to say whether the attacks in Tulsa's predominantly ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) -Special prosecutor Angela Corey said today she will not take the Trayvon Martin shooting death before a grand jury.

Corey said she continues to investigate the case and will not involve a grand jury that had been set to meet Tuesday in Sanford, Fla.

See "FLORIDA," Page 2

black north side were racially motivated. Police spokesman Jason Willingham said that based on Facebook postings attributed to Eng-

Colby mom gets $400 'Immunize, Win' prize

Kim Gordon of Colby has won $400 in utility bill credits from the "Immunize Win a Prize" program sponsored by the Kansas Department of Health and Environment and Envision Digital Print.

The program was offered to Vaccines for Children providers in Kansas. Gordon had her daughter, Peyton, immunized at the Family Center for Health Care in Colby. Her name was drawn from among 58 children who qualified, officials said.

Children who received their complete primary vaccine series by the age of 2 were entered in the drawing and over 200 prizes were awarded in all 105 Kansas counties. One grand prize Win a Prize."

Kim Gordon with Peyton

winner was selected from each clinic or provider.

The department's website says all children should receive immunizations by age 2 to prevent serious illnesses. "We want to thank you, Kim, for taking an active roll in helping to promote a healthy start for your child," said Leslie Focke, coordinator of the clinic. "We also would like to congratulate little Miss Peyton in winning Immunize, Melissa Stramel of Colby, a pharmacy graduate, took over for Danny Lewis, director of the gifts.

The crowd, including principals and students, parents and area KU alums, filled the dinning room at the service center. Mason gave the students a lit-

See "KU HONORS," Page 2

Courts offices here to close Friday

Court and court offices here will ture comes up with more money to be closed Friday along with others across the state as the Kansas court system begins the first of five "furlough" days set to close a $1.4 million budget gap.

Schwarz said employees here really haven't heard much beyond the announcement sent from Topeka on Wednesday.

we do," she said.

day and on April 27, May 11 and islature to pass a supplemental of employee's checks two days at pay court workers.

Schwarz said judges will be tors agreed to that. available for emergency hearings and other actions. Under the state Constitution, their pay normally Clerk of the District Court Kim cannot be reduced, unlike other court workers.

> cases will be put off and lawyers, while they may work, cannot file

The courts had hoped to avoid Court offices will be closed Fri- furlough days by asking the Leg-

The Thomas County District 25 and June 8 unless the Legisla- appropriation for this year, Chief a time to make up the gap. Justice Lawton Nuss wrote in a letter. House and Senate negotia-

> However, the $1.4 million got tied up in wrangling over the regular budget for next year. It still could be passed when the Legislature convenes again later this While the courts are closed, month, but Nuss said the court caused by a drop in case filings system couldn't wait to start saving money on payroll.

> > If the supplemental appropriation doesn't pass, he said, then the furloughs would have to come out

"As of today, we have no assurance that we will have that appropriation to operate through the end of the fiscal year," he said Wednesday, adding: "We will rescind the remaining furlough days if the appropriation is approved."

His letter said the shortfall was which left court revenue from fees less than expected. Nuss said payroll cuts were necessary because salaries make up the bulk of the court system's state budget.

Pinwheels spin message of preventing child abuse

By Christina Beringer

Colby Free Press colby.society@nwkansas.com

The Pinwheels for Prevention Campaign Friday to make people aware of the issue, saycreated by Prevent Child Abuse America is putting a new spin on the prevention of child abuse and neglect this month.

Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect office in Colby said she's encouraging everyone we know how to prevent it."

to support the group's mission during Child Abuse Prevention Month by displaying a pinwheel in your front yard.

She said she hopes people will wear blue on ing that all children should be raised in healthy, nurturing homes, free from abuse and neglect.

"As important as it is to be aware of the Paige Campbell with the Northwest Kansas child abuse and neglect statistics in our community," she said, "it is even more crucial that

Campbell said she hopes that when people see a pinwheel spinning in the wind this month, and throughout the year, that they think about the role they can play in protecting children and preventing child abuse and neglect.

"They are a reminder for adults to practice

See "ABUSE," Page 2

"You probably know as much as anything.