

Friday

April 27, 2012 Volume 123, Number 67 Serving Thomas County since 1888

Senate bill could save overnight mail

By Tom Betz

The Goodland Star-News nt.betz@nwkansas.com

sorting of the Colby area's mail out of state for months, if not longer, and make vice to close small post offices and mailhandling facilities.

passed on a 62-37 vote Wednesday af- vice area of a "sectional center facility" on hold even longer, according to Sen. Republican-dominated House seems to See "SENATE," Page 2 ternoon with the support of a bipartisan such as Colby's post office. coalition including Kansas Sens. Jerry Moran and Pat Roberts.

mail now is worked overnight in Salina, but under plans announced by the Posttwo days. That would end overnight de-The 21st Century Postal Service Act livery of First Class mail within the ser-

The Senate bill would require the Postal Service to redo its studies of closing mail The bill includes provisions, which if plants like the one here, said Tonda Rush, A bill passed Wednesday by the U.S. it becomes law, could at least delay any chief executive officer of the National Senate could delay any decision to move changes to mail-sorting plants. The area's Newspaper Association, and an expert on postal law. That alone could take several months to a year. Another provision proit more difficult for the U.S. Postal Ser- al Service last year, could be moved to vides a three-year moratorium on chang-North Platte, Neb., with a delay of one to ing service standards and a two-year delay on plans to end Saturday mail delivery.

That might put the shift to North Platte

Commission could review any decision to change mail handling. No changes could be made in any event until after this years elections in states, such as Kansas, which allow mail balloting.

The Senate worked through 39 amendments beginning Tuesday and finishing Wednesday evening, then approving the final version and sent it to the House of Representatives, where it faces an uncertain future at best. The conservative, Moran's office. The Postal Regulatory be aiming more to remake the struggling Postal Service rather than help it. No action is expected before the end of the current moratorium on closing post offices and sorting plants.

> The Senate bill would give the service some flexibility in solving its financial problems, but seeks to preserve many of the rural post offices and mail-processing centers which otherwise might be closed after the self-imposed moratorium ends

Woman gets 13-year term for chase, shots

A California woman was sen- proached by Trooper Perry Frey. Court on Thursday, bringing to an end more than a year of proceedings against two people who led law enforcement officers on a high-speed chase through Sherman and Thomas counties last Piper Lacey Stout-Briese, 31, Palmdale, Calif., was sentenced to 161 months - 13.4 years - in the Kansas Department of Corrections by Sherman County District Judge Scott Showalter. She was charged with two counts of attempted second-degree murder for shooting at Kansas Highway Patrol troopers during a chase on Jan. 16, 2011.

Stout-Briese and Anthony Patrick, 31, of Lancaster, Calif., had been parked at the Interstate 70 rest area east of Kanorado in a Toyota Scion when they were ap- See "CHASE," Page 2

tenced to more than 13 years in Frey testified he had run the car's prison in Sherman County District license plate, which came back as registered to a Dodge pickup.

Patrick gave Frey a false name, and when the trooper asked for his license and registration, Patrick started the engine and sped off east on I-70.

man County Sheriff's Deputy Asa Stiles responded, setting up "stop sticks" – devices put on the road to deflate tires – at the west Goodland exit, but Patrick swerved around them, continuing east with Frey and two deputies following at speeds up to 90 mph.

As the chase continued, Stout-Briese began firing a .22-caliber rifle out of the passenger window at Frey, hitting his patrol car. Troopers put down more stop sticks at Frey radioed for help. Sher-

Fourth graders learn about conservation

SHARON FRIEDLANDER/Colby Free Press

Sons of Legion want to put flags in yards

The Colby Sons of the American Legion are accepting requests from people who would like the group to place three-foot-by-fivefoot American flags in their yards for patriotic holidays.

Flags will be put up and taken down for Memorial Day, Flag Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Patriots Day and, weather permitting, Veterans Day.

The deadline to sign a contract and Legion post improvements. is Saturday, May 19, said Tracey Galli. A donation of $25, is suggested. Blank contracts are being printed as an advertisement the Colby Free Press.

Proceeds from the project go to support Honor Flights for World War II veterans, provide Christmas presents for veterans in area nursing homes and to support Genesis-Thomas County food bank, the Child Welfare Foundation, Big Brothers Big Sisters, Bibles for Troops, a World War II Veterans Memorial Sign for U.S. 24, the annual Run for the Wall counties came to town on Wednesday for a fun day filled with interesting facts at the fifth annual Kids Conservation conservation office and Matt Roundup at the Community Palmquist, of the Sheridan Building.

The Sons also are planning for a memorial monument for veterans at Beulah Cemetery in Colby, and part of fund-raising proceeds will go to help build that monument.

tations on reptiles, skins and about rangeland and native skulls, prairie animals, soil tunnels, farm safety, pollinalems and stream banks.

a girl (above) listened as Matt instructors and ask questions Barnes from the U.S. Natural Resources Conservation Service in Decatur County ex- on by the Northwest Kansas plained all about earthworms. Conservation and Environ-Students got hands on with mental Alliance.

Fourth graders from eight the worms, much to the chagrin of some. Ew!

Ted Houser (left in right photo) of the Wallace County County office taught students Students listened to presen- from Grinnell and Kanorado prairie grasses.

The experts asked questors, rangeland water prob- tions and handed out information at each station. The stu-Dominic Sierra, Oakley, and dents excitedly answered the of their own.

This annual program is put

Business After 5

KATHRYN BALLARD/Colby Free Press

Kenny Bixenman got some veggies from the buffet at a Business After 5 affair last week at Sunflower Bank in downtown Colby. Cheryl Edmundson (center) and Susan Orr were helping people get some goodies during the event, put on by the bank for the Colby-Thomas County Chamber of Commerce.

Spring cleanup coming soon

The City of Colby and the Thomas County commissioners have joined again to sponsor the annual citywide-countywide Cleanup Week from Monday to Friday, May 7 to 11.

Deadline to arrange a pickup of extra loads and large items is noon next Friday. Call the city office at 460-4410 to schedule a day.

The city is asking service clubs and church groups to volunteer to clean up public areas, including parks, ballfields and all roadsides and entrances to town.

Individuals and businesses are encouraged to make an extra effort to spruce up their yards and share in See "CLEANUP," Page 2 the pride of having a clean city and county.

Anyone willing to help the elderly and infirm and other who can't move their own junk should call Jo Strange at the city office, 460-4410, and leave your name. People who need help should also call that number to be matched up with volunteers.

City crews will follow the regular scheduled routes for yard waste and trash pickup, but other crews will be available to handle extra trash and large items for residential customers only. Owners of businesses and

New maps leave 40th in bad shape

By John Milburn

The Associated Press

TOPEKA – A group of lawmakers endorsed new maps for Kansas Senate districts today, setting the deadline for approving the maps grows closer.

The Senate map includes a controversial proposal to stretch the 17-county 40th district around Colby into the eastern half of Kansas.

The Senate Reapportionment square miles. The map endorsed

The measure also includes changes already approved by the Kansas House to its 125 districts. Three stage for a vote next week as the committee members voted against the map, led by Sen. Ralph Ostmeyer, who criticized how western Kansas was divvied up.

The Grinnell Republican represents the 40th District of northwest Kansas, the largest in the state in numbers of counties and Committee endorsed the new dis- today makes that worse, collapstricts, along with new lines for the ing a district now held by Demo-10 state Board of Education seats. crat Sen. Allan Schmidt of Hays and giving Ostmeyer more land to cover.

> "This committee's got to be kidding me," he said, noting that it would take more than three hours to get from the proposed western boundary with Colorado to the

See "MAPS," Page 2

