The Colby 12 and Under baseball team had an outstanding season this summer, taking second place at the year-end tournament in WaKeeney and finishing with an impressive 18-3 record.

Colby was the top team in the West division of the league, which comprises five teams, and had a division record of 14-1 to take first place.

Coach Jeff Krzycki said the team's three losses were each by only one run.

The year-end tourney was played on July 14 in WaKeeney and the teams from both the East and West divisions competed. Krzycki said the boys went 4-2 that day to grab the second-place trophy.

Colby won its first game in the tournament, but then lost the second, which means the boys had to play through the consolation bracket to make it to the championship game.

"We were on the field from 1 p.m. until 9," Krzycki said. "It was 105 degrees and those kids did a great job."

He said the championship game was a heart-breaker, though, as the boys lost 3-2.

"These young kids came a long way," he said. "I just wanted to get to the championship game because they only give trophies to two teams. I wanted those kids to get something to show for all their hard work."

The players on the 12 and Under team were Gauge Winger, Zach Hart, Tyler Zerr, Jacob Tubbs, Tommy Cline, Tucker Branum, Tyler Harry, Colin Gielsher, Seth Hutfles, Kylene Britt, Konnor Griffin and Heath Bolyard.

Head coach out to win respect for Jayhawks football squad

LAWRENCE (AP) — It was show-and-tell time this week in the coaching offices of what has been one of the nation's weakest football programs.

Charlie Weis could hardly believe his eyes.

Could these really be the same poorly conditioned football players he agreed to lead last spring?

Weis, who shocked a lot of people when he took over at Kansas last February, met with strength and conditioning coach Scott Holsopple, who had made a book with three pictures of every player.

"A picture of when we first got here, a picture at the end of the spring (practice) and a picture at the end of the summer," Weis said. The difference in many, said the coach, was startling.

"To look at some of the body changes on some of these guys from where they were — just look at their bodies," he said. "I actually had to pull some of the pictures out to show some of the staff cause they didn't believe me."

Of course, all this does not mean the Jayhawks will be competitive in every Big 12 game they play in Weis' first season. Most pundits figure they will be dead last in a toughened Big 12 that has added TCU and West Virginia.

"Let's face it — just because they gained all these numbers in strength and conditioning doesn't mean you're automatically going to win more games," Weis said. "But, to watch the transformation of a body in six months..."

Whether Weis can resurrect the Jayhawks will be one of the more intriguing story lines in college football this year. As recently as 2007, the Jayhawks won 12 games and beat Virginia Tech in the Orange Bowl, their only BCS appearance.

But since 1945, Kansas has won as many as nine games only three times. In the past two seasons under Turner Gill, they won only five games total. This has always been a basketball school, a place where football for most fans is hardly more than an afterthought.

"Logically, I can't see why anyone wouldn't rate us last, based off the evidence of what they have," Weis said. "Right now, all we've done is hire a new coach, hire a new staff and change the way business is being done to marry the personality of the head coach."

Weis has said goodbye to 23 players and welcomed 27, including several who transferred from Notre Dame.

"So that's been a big change in personnel," he said.

His instincts tell him the change in perception may have started last month in Dallas when the Jayhawks joined their conference brethren at Big 12 media day. Along for the ride was Dayne Crist, the big quarterback who transferred from Notre Dame and will have one year of eligibility.
