Legion to honor senior veterans

Veterans living at two senior centers in Colby will be honored by the Colby chapter of the Sons of the American Legion on Monday, Nov. 12, for Veterans Day this year.

With help from fund raisers throughout the year, including a raffle for a quilt donated by Gayle Breckenkamp, and other events sponsored by the Sons, the group bought plaques that will be presented to each of the 17 veterans at Colby's two nursing homes, Deseret Health and Rehab and the Prairie Senior Living Complex.

The ceremonies will begin at 1 p.m. in the dining room at Deseret, 105 E. College Dr., and at 2 p.m. in the main dining hall of Prairie Senior Living, 1625 S. Franklin Ave.

"The plaques are personally inscribed with the veterans' names and are being presented by the Sons to acknowledge and thank each veteran for their service," said Tracey Galli, commander of the group. "Often times we forget that these men and women have sacrificed so much for us, so we want to remind them that they haven't been forgotten and we appreciate them and their service to our country."

Kenneth Theiler, who served in the Air Force as an instructor in Scott Field, Ill., just east of St. Louis, is one of 11 who will be honored at Deseret.

"It's the best thing in the world to honor the vets who have served our country," said the Colby native.

Veterans Armun Jones and Roger Binder are among those who will be honored at Prairie Senior Living, said Activities Coordinator Mickey Miller.

"I think all of us here feel strongly that we owe all veterans - every single one of them - for our freedom," said Miller. "They sacrificed so much to keep us safe, and we hope people will come join us for a ceremony and ice cream sundaes to honor six veterans here."

Miller said that Jones served 3 1/2 years during World War II in North Africa and Italy. Before leaving home, he promised his girlfriend, Rita, that he'd be back to marry her. They'll celebrate their 68th wedding anniversary next month at the complex, said Miller.

The experiences from 15 years in the National Guard left Binder with pride for his country and he says he feels fortunate for being able to have seen the fall of the Iron Curtain and the Berlin Wall.

From 1975 to 1990, he repaired military equipment in Germany, Switzerland and Ireland.

This year, said Galli, the Sons began placing an American flag for each veteran in front of both centers on Memorial Day, Flag Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Patriots Day and now, Veterans Day.

Airports and stock exchange reopen

By Adam Geller
AP National Writer

NEW YORK - Two major airports reopened and the floor of the New York Stock Exchange came back to life today, while across the river in New Jersey, National Guardsmen rushed to rescue flood victims and fires still raged two days after Superstorm Sandy.

For the first time since the storm battered the Northeast, killing at least 61 people and inflicting billions of dollars in damage, brilliant sunshine washed over the nation's largest city - a striking sight after days of gray skies, rain and wind.

At the stock exchange, running on generator power, Mayor Michael Bloomberg gave a thumbs-up and rang the opening bell to whoops from traders on the floor. Trading resumed after the first two-day weather shutdown since the Blizzard of 1888.

New York's subway system was still down, but Kennedy and Newark Liberty airports reopened with limited service just after 7 a.m. New York's LaGuardia Airport, which suffered far worse damage and where water covered parts of runways, remained closed.

It was clear that restoring the region to its ordinarily frenetic pace could take days - and that rebuilding the hardest-hit communities and the transportation networks that link them could take considerably longer.

About 6.5 million homes and businesses were still without power, including 4 million in New York and New Jersey. Electricity was out as far west as Wisconsin and as far south as the Carolinas.

The scale of the challenge could be seen across the Hudson River in New Jersey, where National Guard trucks rolled into heavily flooded Hoboken to deliver ready-to-eat meals and other supplies and to evacuate people from their condo high-rises, brownstones and other homes.

The mayor of the city of 50,000 issued an appeal for people to bring boats to City Hall to help with the evacuation.

And new problems arose when firefighters were unable to reach blazes rekindled by natural gas leaks in the heavily hit shore town of Mantoloking. More than a dozen homes were destroyed.

As the extent of the devastation became clear, New Jersey Gov. Chris Christie issued an order postponing Halloween trick-or-treating until Monday, saying floodwaters, downed power lines, outages and fallen trees make it too dangerous for children to go out.

President Barack Obama planned to visit Atlantic City, N.J., which was directly in the storm's path Monday night and where part of the historic boardwalk washed away.

Outages in the state's two largest cities, Newark and Jersey City, left traffic signals dark, resulting in fender-benders at intersections where police were not directing traffic.

At one Jersey City supermarket, there were long lines to get bread and use an electrical outlet to charge cellphones.

Amid the despair, talk of recovery was already beginning.

"It's heartbreaking after being here 37 years," Barry Prezioso of Point Pleasant, N.J., said as he returned to his house in the beachfront community. "You see your home demolished like this, it's tough. But nobody got hurt and the upstairs is still livable, so we can still live upstairs and clean this out. I'm sure there's people that had worse..."

As New York began its second day after the megastorm, morning rush-hour traffic was heavy as people started returning to work. There was even a sign of normalcy: commuters waiting at bus stops. School was out for a third day.

The Brooklyn-Battery Tunnel, connecting Brooklyn to Manhattan, and the Holland Tunnel, between New York and New Jersey, remained closed. But bridges into the city were open, and city buses were running, free of charge.

On the Brooklyn Bridge, closed earlier because of high winds, joggers and bikers made their way across before sunrise. One cyclist carried a flashlight. Car traffic on the bridge was busy.

Bloomberg said it could be the weekend before the subway, which suffered the worst damage in its 108-year history, is running again. High water prevented inspectors from immediately assessing damage to key equipment.

Briefly

Early voting available at clerk's office

Have you decided how your going to vote on Tuesday, Nov. 6? If so, and you'd like to vote early, stop by the Thomas County clerk's office between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Thursday or Friday, or from 8 a.m. to noon Monday. The office will close at noon that day so employees can run final roster books and set up the Community Building for the election. Bring your photo ID. For questions, call County Clerk Shelly Harms at 460-4500.

Genesis gears up for holiday project

The Genesis-Thomas County Food Bank plans once again to deliver food baskets to families in need during the holiday season. Families who are interested should pick up a form from 10 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. Wednesdays at the Genesis office, 350 S. Range, Suite 13, or call 460-7930 and leave a message. Forms are also available at the Pioneer Memorial Library, the Department for Children and Families office and the county Health Department. These must be returned by Thursday, Nov. 8. For information, call Colleen Bixenman at 462-6890.

Group plans dance at Meadow Lake Saturday

A singles and couples dance is planned for 6 to 10 p.m. Saturday at the Meadow Lake Golf Clubhouse. Gary Phipps will provide music. Everyone welcome. For information, call Lue Duffey in Rexford, (785) 269-7057.

Vet-Tech students offer dog, cat washing

The Student Veterinary Technician Association at Colby Community College will hold a pet wash from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday at the Ag/Vet Tech Building. Animals must have proof of required vaccinations. Cost to wash and groom dogs ranges from $8 to $14. A brush-out for cats is $5 and a bath is $10. To schedule an appointment, call Colleen Maison or leave a message at 460-5462.

Sacred Heart will serve Thanksgiving dinner

An old-fashioned Thanksgiving dinner will be served from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sunday in the Colby Sacred Heart Catholic Church basement. Turkey, ham, dressing, mashed potatoes and gravy, green beans, rolls, salads and homemade pie will be served. Home delivery is available; call 462-2179 before Sunday or 443-2298 that day. There is elevator access the basement. For information, call Kim Brier at 462-2179.

Colby Legion Post changes meeting day

The Colby American Legion Post has changed its membership meeting date to the first Tuesday of the month. The next meeting will be at 7 p.m. Tuesday. For information, call Monte Lewis at (785) 953-1061.

ment doesn't believe they are connected, but the police have been following up on leads for all three.

The department asked that people call 460-4460 if they have any information that might lead to the identity of the driver.

Alexander said people have been calling in information, but the tips haven't led anywhere yet. And it's still possible the incident involved an innocent mistake.

"If you happen to be the individual that spoke to the child," a department statement said, "and may have mistaken the boy for someone you know, please contact the department."

Judge orders paper to reveal commenter

TOPEKA (AP) - A northeast Kansas judge has ordered a newspaper to identify an online commenter who is accused of accessing a news story during a first-degree murder trial in which he was a juror.

Shawnee County District Judge Steven Ebberts last week denied a request by The Topeka Capital-Journal to quash a subpoena for the information. The case involves a commenter on CJonline.com using the pseudonym of "BePrepared" who accessed a news story in July about the trial of Anceo Stovall and posted a comment.

A man believed to be "BePrepared" asserted his Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination... The newspaper reported (bit.ly/YnjqWU) it will comply with the order.
