Colby native grabs K-State attention

Colby native Adam Weber, a walk-on football player at Kansas State University, has gotten everyone's attention at spring practices, including legendary Coach Bill Snyder.

In an article by Ken Corbitt of the Topeka Capital-Journal, Coach Snyder named Weber "among the breakthrough performers in spring practice."

"Two guys have come out of the blue and impressed all of us," Snyder said in the article. "One of them is at the fullback position, and that's Adam Weber. He's shown up in the last few days and is a tough, competitive young guy and got everybody's attention. He doesn't have the size that Braden (Wilson) does, but he has that kind of toughness...."

Weber, son of Omar and Shirley Weber of Colby, transferred to K-State this year from Garden City Community College as a junior.

Last year at Garden City, he received the National Junior College Athletic Association Exemplary Academic Achievement Award with a grade average of 3.74, roughly a B+.

Colby senior named MVP

Both the boys and girls Dark Teams won their games Sunday at the Northwest Kansas All-Star Basketball Classic at the Community Building.

Colby High senior Todd Kane was named the most valuable player for the boys' Light Team.

For the girls game, the Dark Team won 60-45. The most valuable player for the Dark Team was Karlie Steinle from Wilson, who also won the three-point shooting contest. MVP for the Light Team was Hannah Whitaker from Greeley, Colo.

For the boys game, the Dark Team won 103-93. The MVP for the Dark Team was Joey Meyer from Scott City and the three-point champion for the boys was Tyler Walters from Ellis.

Steinle and Walters competed against each other for the overall three-point champion and Steinle won.

Super voice gone: Pat Summerall dead

DALLAS (AP) - Pat Summerall was the calm alongside John Madden's storm.

Over four decades, Summerall described some of the biggest sports events in America in his deep, resonant voice. Simple, spare, he delivered the details on 16 Super Bowls, the Masters and the U.S. Open tennis tournament with a simple, understated style that was the perfect complement for the "booms!" and "bangs!" of Madden, his football partner for the last half of the NFL-player-turned-broadcaster's career.

Summerall died Tuesday at age 82 of cardiac arrest, said Jeff Carlton, a spokesman for the University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center, speaking on behalf of Summerall's wife, Cheri.

"Pat was my broadcasting partner for a long time, but more than that, he was my friend for all of these years," Madden said in a statement. "Pat Summerall is the voice of football and always will be."

His final play-by-play words beside Madden were succinct, of course, as he called the game-ending field goal of the Super Bowl for Fox on Feb. 3, 2002, when New England beat St. Louis 20-17:

"It's right down the pipe. Adam Vinatieri. No time on the clock. And the Patriots have won Super Bowl XXXVI. Unbelievable."

Sparse, exciting, perfect. A flawless summation without distracting from the reaction viewers could see on the screen.

At the end of their final broadcast together, Madden described Summerall as "a treasure" and the "spirit of the National Football League" in a tribute to the partner who complemented the boisterous former Oakland Raiders coach so well.
