

Statewide meetings to inform about health insurance changes

The talk about health insurance changes coming in 2014 has increased this summer, and the Kansas insurance Department wants to help answer your questions.

We are planning a series of informational meetings throughout the state in September and October that are designed to present facts about health insurance changes coming to Kansans. Along with the information we have, we will give you an opportunity to ask questions about how those changes might affect your situation and your family.

On Monday, Sept. 23, there will be two meetings in Hays: at 2 p.m. in the Hays Medical Center, Hadley Conference Rooms, 2220 Canterbury Road, and at 7 p.m. in the Fort Hays State University Memorial Union Ballroom, College Drive.

At each event, either Linda Sheppard, our department health policy director and special counsel, or I will walk attendees through an overview of the new health law and explain who is affected by the coming health insurance changes (only some Kansans are). We will also explain and demonstrate how the new online insurance marketplace will operate. The biggest part of the meeting will be answering your questions about the changes. Our department has been analyzing the changes since some of them went into effect in 2010, and we will do our best to present objective answers to specific questions.

We won't be debating the merits of the changes; that's not our job as employees of the insurance department. We just want to make sure people have all the necessary information to work through changes put in place by law.

Handouts with additional information will be available at the meetings. If you have questions after reading them, our consumer assistance representatives can take your toll-free calls in Kansas at (800) 432-2484. Also, by the time the meetings roll around, at least two new Kansas Navigator programs established by the federal government will provide information. Watch for their announcements in your local news outlets later this month.

The insurance department is planning to post some short YouTube videos that address certain health insurance changes. And, there will be a new website, www.insureKS.org, that will provide much information about how the online marketplaces will operate.

We are planning to continue these meetings in October in other Kansas cities. That information will be available in about a month.

Kansans who want to learn more about the changes are invited to join us at one or more of the meetings. We want to provide as much information to as many people as we can before and as the changes take place.

Attention matters when floods occur

Though Kansas has experienced long periods of drought, recent rainstorms have caused flooding across the state.

"When people are aware of the dangers and power of flooding, they can take measures to lessen the exposure to danger," said Beth Freeman, regional administrator for the Federal Emergency Management Agency's Region VII.

While floods are common, floodwaters covering roadways are one of the most dangerous elements. About 60 percent of flood deaths happen when people try to cross flooded roads in vehicles.

"When you're driving and you see the road ahead is flooded, be safe," Freeman said. "It's best to 'turn around, don't drown.'" Just six inches of water can stall many passenger cars or cause drivers to lose control.

If flash floods are likely, the agency recommends moving immediately to higher ground without waiting for instructions. Even without rain clouds or heavy rain, streams, ditches and other areas can flood suddenly from rains upstream.

If you must evacuate because of a flood, the agency says you should secure your home, move essential items to an upper floor, turn off utilities at the main switches and take essential documents with you.

Fish capsizes boat, gets landed

LIHUE, Hawaii (AP) — A 54-year-old fisherman is safe after his 14-foot boat capsized as he was landing a 230-pound tuna in the ocean off Hawaii. The U.S. Coast Guard rescued

Wichman was fishing about 10 miles southwest of Port Allen on the island of Kauai when he hooked the Ahi tuna.
