obituary

Sam Morrow

Sam Morrow, 91, Burlington, Colo., father of Goodland resident Jay Morrow, died Sunday, June 25, 2000, at his home.

He was born Jan. 12, 1909, in Kanorado.

He was a farmer. He was married to Laura Mae Straughn on Aug. 27, 1928. She died in 1991. Then he and Imogene Morrow were married April 5, 1992.

He lived on a farm northeast of Burlington for many years, before moving into Burlington.

He enjoyed working with young and old people of the community.

He was one of the original directors of Camp Elim in Woodland Park, Colo. He also assisted the Colorado Christian Home in Colorado Springs.

He welcomed anyone who might need help or encouragement to his home. He helped restore the buildings at Old Town in Burlington.

Services were held at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday at the Evangelical Free Church in Burlington with Ron Lee officiating. Burial was in Beaver Valley Cemetery at Burlington.

Survivors include his wife of the home; two other sons, Darrel, Denver, and Jack, Lawrenceville, Ga.; a daughter, Irene Lytle, Burlington; two stepsons, Ted and Gary, both of Fort Worth, Texas; a stepdaughter, Susan, Fort Worth; two sisters, Mate Cabel, Cortez, Colo., and Gertrude Caudell, Redmond, Ore.; and many grandchildren, great-grandchildren, and great-great-grandchildren.

A memorial has been set up for the Caring Hands Hospice at Hendricks-Love Mortuary, 377 15th Street, Burlington, Colo. 80807.

The Goodland Arts Council and the Goodland Chamber of Commerce will host a 24-hour photography contest, "Another Day in the Life of Sherman County," on the Fourth of July.

All Sherman County residents are encouraged to participate. There is no charge for the program, but participants must furnish their own 35mm camera. The arts council will have a few point and shoot disposable cameras for young children who may wish to enter.

Contestants will be allowed 24 hours to shoot one roll of 24-exposure black and white or color film in Sherman County and return it to the Carnegie Arts Center. The subject matter is unlimited. Enrollment is limited to 60 persons.

The collected film will then be processed and juried. Selected photos will be displayed at the arts center in August.

Forty winning photos from an earlier shoot and the Fourth of July contest will be enlarged, matted and exhibited at the center during September.

The winning photos will remain the property of the arts council. However, after the contest, participants may purchase the proofs and negatives of the remaining photos for the cost of processing.

Partial funding for this event has been provided by the Comfort Inn, Rural Health Ventures Inc., and donations by individuals of Goodland.

For information or to register, call the arts center at 899-6442 or stop by 120 W. 12th before Tuesday.

Water lawsuit won't be dismissed

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court refused Thursday to dismiss a lawsuit in which Kansas accuses Nebraska of using too much water from the Republican River basin.

The one-sentence order means that the two states will hash the matter out in court unless the issue is settled.

Kansas filed a lawsuit in 1998, accusing Nebraska of violating a 1943 interstate compact by allowing farmers to divert more than their legal share of the river's water for private use. In January, Special Master Vincent McKusick, who was appointed by the high court to hear the case, rejected a request by Nebraska to dismiss the lawsuit. Nebraska then appealed to the high court.

Nebraska has maintained that groundwater use is not regulated by the compact, which also was signed by Colorado, because it was signed before deep-well irrigation was used in the river basin.
