club news

Redwood Family and Community Education Club

The Redwood Family and Community Education Club met at the home of Gertrude Carroll. There were 14 members present.

The group watched an educational tape entitled, "Who gets Grandma's yellow plate?"

President Lavaughn Glasco read an article called, "I love my flag and what it stands for," and led the group in reciting the club creed.

Three members attended the lesson on the "yellow plate," which was held at the courthouse.

Helen Armstrong was unable to attend the meeting, so Kathryn Kuhlman and Carroll led the discussion. Each member answered roll call by showing some family treasures and telling how the division of property was handled by their ancestors and how it could be done now.

The business meeting included a report from Carroll on the council meeting. It was announced that fair dates will be Aug. 7-12 and that a space has been reserved for the club's booth, which will be judged Aug. 8. The theme for this year's education club booths will be "The Best is Yet to Come."

Plans for the booth were discussed and work will be done at the next meeting, which will be on July 20 at Glasco's home.

The date for the education club's fall workshop has been set for Thursday, Nov. 16, in Hill City.

A stroke and diabetes workshop will be held the first week of November. Other details on it will be announced at a later date.

Beulah McClung and Naomi Wade were picked as door prize winners at the meeting.
