

Giants slide past Rockies

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — After losing three of four games in Colorado last week, the San Francisco Giants vowed to get even at home. They did just that, making it a four-game sweep for emphasis.

Jeff Kent's tiebreaking RBI double in the ninth gave the Giants a 6-5 win Thursday over the Rockies, who have lost 12 straight in San Francisco and have never won at Pacific Bell Park.

Bill Mueller led off the ninth with a walk. J.T. Snow appeared to bunt into a double play, but was awarded first when the umpires ruled that a collision with pitcher Mike Myers (0-1) prevented Snow from reaching first.

Kent then doubled off the left-field wall against Stan Belinda, giving Giants manager Dusty Baker his 600th career win and giving San Francisco its sixth straight victory.

Robb Nen (3-3) pitched one inning for the win.

The Rockies, held to three runs in 45 innings while losing their previous five games at the Giants' new park, were held to seven hits by four San Francisco pitchers. But the Rockies drew eight walks, and three of them scored.

Each team scored a run in the eighth. Tom Goodwin had a pinch-hit RBI single to give Colorado a 5-4 lead, and Rich Aurilia responded with an RBI single in the bottom half of the inning.

Trailing 4-0, the Giants hit for the cycle in the sixth to tie the game. Mueller led off with a double and, one out later, Kent had an RBI single. Ellis Burks followed with an RBI triple and Felipe Crespo — playing because of an injury to Barry Bonds — hit his second homestrike of the season.

The Rockies scored three in the first on a bases-loaded walk earned by Darren Bragg and a two-run double by Brent Mayne. Colorado added a run in the sixth on Brian Hunter's RBI groundout.

Rockies starter Rolando Arrojo allowed four runs on eight hits in seven innings. Russ Ortiz pitched the first 5 1-3 innings for the Giants, allowing four runs on five hits and six walks.

Colorado's Todd Helton, who leads the NL with a .385 average, had his 11-game hitting streak snapped when he went 0-for-3 with two walks.

Williams stays with Jayhawks

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — "I'm staying."

Those two words from Roy Williams will become part of the lore of one of the nation's historic college basketball programs.

Williams was saying no to North Carolina and yes to Kansas.

Listening to Williams announce Thursday night that he had rejected an offer to return to his beloved Tar Heels and replace Bill Guthridge as coach, Kansas fans must have felt vindicated. They have finally avenged that triple-overtime loss to North Carolina in the 1957 NCAA title game, the game that broke Wilt Chamberlain's heart.

"The decision here I've made came after the toughest seven days of my life," Williams said as he and athletic director Bob Frederick sat in a jam-packed, steamy little room beneath the Kansas football stadium.

More than 16,000 fans sat outside in the stadium seats, watching the news conference on a giant video board and cheering every word.

Since announcing last Friday that he was torn between staying at Kansas or moving to North Carolina, Williams received almost 2,000 e-mails urging him to stay.

He walked the campus by himself Thursday, reading hundreds of signs and banners proclaiming love for the coach who has won more games the past 12 years than anybody else in Di-
