club news

Redwood Club

Members of the Redwood Family and Community Education Club saw photos and heard stories at their February meeting about a trip two club members took to New England.

Thirteen members met Feb. 15 at Helen Armstrong's home. Arleta Musil was co-hostess for the meeting.

President Musil opened the meeting by having the group recite the Unit Creed. Members answered roll call by telling what states or other countries they had visited or thought would be fun to visit. From the answers, it appeared all were a group of happy travelers.

Armstrong reported on the health fair held in January which five members attended. She exhibited a prize of collector stamps she won at the cancer prevention booth.

It was reported that eight members attended the farewell reception for Roxanne Burda, former Sherman County family and consumer sciences agent.

Ruth Ross distributed brochures for the 55 Alive driving course to be held on the evenings of Feb. 28 and March 1.

Members will meet with Ruth Morton on Feb. 23 to make door decorations for March for residents of the Good Samaritan Center.

Lavaughn Glasco gave a report on a bus tour she took to see the Magic Lantern slide show given by Terry Borton of Connecticut at The Gateway in Oberlin.

Armstrong and Musil showed pictures and entertained the club with stories of their tour to the New England states with fellow travelers Naomi Wade and Delmer Musil.

Beulah McClung and Glasco won door prizes at the meeting. The next meeting will be on Thursday, March 15, at the home of Dorocile Reynolds. Co-hostess will be Eleanor Kelly.

correction

In the county commissioners' agenda story in Monday's issue of The Goodland Daily News, it was incorrectly stated that Mike Niernberger was with American Family Life Assurance Co. or AFLAC. The company Niernberger is with is actually American Fidelity Assurance Co. The error was due to incorrect information given to the newspaper.

4-H clubs to begin model meetings Monday

As most 4-Hers are well aware, model meetings in Sherman County are quickly approaching. On Monday, Prairie Dale, Country Clovers and Beaver Valley 4-H clubs will hold their model meetings at the 4-H Building. Ruleton Eager Beavers, Glendale Livewires, and Sunflower 4-H clubs will hold theirs on Monday, March 19, at the same place. The public is encouraged to attend.

While most people might enjoy model meetings, not many people understand their importance. Model meetings are meant to give 4-H members a better view of how to run a real-world meeting. Meetings are judged based upon Robert's Rules of Order, which are used in everyday life, such as for city and county commission meetings, school board meetings and many other political and social clubs. Members learn how to make and amend motions, table motions, and properly conduct a meeting.

In addition, members learn important public speaking skills through demonstrations, project talks and health and safety talks. At the model meeting, judges will critique each club based on how well their meeting is conducted, how well the club has mastered its use of Robert's Rules of Order, and how well its members conduct themselves in the demonstrations and project talks presented. The model meeting encourages the participation of each 4-H member. They may last no longer than 35 minutes. The judges will also review the secretary's minutes and the secretary's book.

Each year, judges select one club to move on to regional competition and see how they compare against other top clubs from the surrounding area. Our region includes Cheyenne, Sherman, Wallace, Rawlins, Thomas, Logan, Decatur, Sheridan and Gove counties. The regional 4-H days will be held Friday, March 30, at Brewster High School. If you would like additional information, contact the K-State Research and Extension Office in Goodland at 899-4880.
