Goodland native picked as state master teacher

Cathy Esquibel of Dodge City, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Scheopner of Goodland, has been selected as one of this year's Kansas Master Teachers.

She and six other teachers were chosen from 47 of the state's best teachers and were honored on April 4 at Emporia State University, which sponsors the program.

Esquibel, a first-grade teacher at Northwest Elementary School in Dodge City, was born and raised in Goodland and graduated in 1971 from Goodland High School. She received a Bachelor of Science degree in elementary education from St. Mary's of the Plains College in Dodge City and a master's degree in elementary education from Fort Hays State University in Hays.

Esquibel has been a teacher since 1975.

"As an educator, I am responsible for guiding each child and enabling him to observe and experiment with the world around him," she said about teaching. "By providing a classroom environment rich with language, literature, problem-solving activities and technology, I can foster an appreciation of the real world and what it has to offer."

Since the university established the teacher awards in 1954, more than 400 educators have been honored. The awards are presented to teachers who have "served the profession long and well and who also typify the good qualities of earnest and conscientious teachers."

Candidates are nominated for the awards by teacher associations, educational organizations and other teachers. In February, a committee representing educational organizations from across Kansas selected the winners.
