today in history

May 7, 1901 — The case of John Arndt against Ben Canaga, for assault and battery, was convened with a jury called. Arndt testified that Canaga pushed him down, hit him twice, then cussed him for several moments. Canaga stated that Arndt stumbled over a lister furrow. He admitted to cussing Arndt since the quarrel started because Arndt's cattle were trespassing on Canaga's growing wheat. The jury was out for about 15 minutes before finding Canaga not guilty. The expense of the trial was $52.45 with Sherman County having to foot the bill.

Band wins Dove Award

A Christian rock band that got its start in Hays recently captured its first Dove Award.

The group, Pillar, hastes to Goodland as its lead singer Rob Beckley is engaged to be married Saturday, May 26, to Linda Duell, daughter of Ben and Evelyn Duell of Sherman County. Duell and Beckley met while attending Fort Hays State University.

Pillar, now based in Tulsa, won the award for Hard Rock Music Album of the Year for "Above."

The group had been nominated for Hard Music Recorded Song of the Year for "Open Your Eyes," the band's first single, but did not win that award. However, they did open the award ceremony at the Grand Ol' Opry in Nashville, Tenn., by performing the single.

In addition to Beckley, formerly of Plainville, the group features guitarist Travis Jenkins, formerly of Salina; drummer Brad Noone, a native of Plainville; and bassist Kalel, whose real name is Michael Wittig, from California.

The Dove Awards are Christian music's version of the Grammy Awards.

Student earns tech awards

Clayton Elliott, a senior at Colby High School, recently competed in the annual Technology Student Association state conference at Fort Hays State University.

Elliott, the son of Jack and Kathy Elliott of Colby, placed first in Computer Assisted Design 3-D competition and second in extemporaneous presentation and flight endurance. He was also chosen as this year's Mr. Kansas by the association.

He, along with five other Colby students, will compete at the national conference in June in Richmond, Va.

Elliott is the grandson of Virginia Chatfield and the late Eddie Dean Chatfield of Goodland and John and Eleanor Elliott of Edson.

City to discuss meetings

City Manager Ron Pickman plans to ask commissioners if any of them want to go to three May meetings at tonight's regular commission meeting at 5 p.m.

Pickman said these meetings are held in May so that new commissioners can get some training.

He said an intergovernmental relations and cooperation meeting will be held May 12 in Abilene, a "telecommunications summit" on May 17 in Topeka, and a "governmental body institute" May 18 and 19 in Topeka.

Pickman said he would like to go to the two Topeka meetings, especially the telecommunications session, if the commission approves.

"We have another telecommunications provider looking at coming into Goodland," he said. "This is very relevant to the city commission and Goodland."

Pickman will also talk with the commissioners about having a workshop with city staff to discuss policy and a third workshop with the Sherman County Commissioners on recycling.

He will give a progress report on the Steever Water Park.

Also on the agenda, the commission will:

- Decide on who will receive the bid for a cooling tower to be replaced at the city's power plant. Pickman said the tower cools the water that keeps the engines cool, like a car's radiator.

- Listen to a presentation by Charlotte Linsner on the Topside of Kansas 24-Hour Relay Challenge to be held in Goodland in June.

- Make an appointment to the Board of Zoning Appeals. City Commissioner Dean Blume was on the board, but had to resign when he was elected, so his seat needs to be filled. The term will expire February 2002.

- Discuss increasing the property tax levy for the Goodland Public Library at the request of the library board.

- Discuss whether to renew the city's membership in the Nebraska Municipal Power Pool.

Mayor Tom Rohr will proclaim this week as Elks Youth Week to honor America's "junior citizens."
