Alcoa buys Emporia press maker's property

EMPORIA (AP) — A Colorado company has bought the property of Didde Web Press Corp., but doesn't plan to set up an operation in Emporia.

Alcoa Packaging Machinery, based in Englewood, Colo., bought Didde's assets in a June 29 auction in U.S. Bankruptcy Court. Didde, which has been in Emporia for more than 50 years, filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy in December, after laying off 97 people, about half its work force.

"Our plans are to create future Didde business by consolidating into an existing factory Alcoa owns in Denver," David Groetsch, president of Alcoa Packaging Machinery, said Friday.

Groetsch said Didde employees had been told of Alcoa's plans and those willing to relocate might be able to get a job with the company.

"As part of those meetings," Groetsch said, "there was a general statement made there would be jobs available for a certain number of individuals."
