Cheyenne County woman crowned Thresher Queen

By Perry Elkins

The Bird City Times

The 2001 Thresher Queen was crowned on July 26 as the Tri-State Antique Engine and Thresher Show got underway in Bird City.

Meta Melita Bader Dankenbring was born to German-Russian immigrants who homesteaded northwest of St. Francis. When she was 2, the family moved to land southeast of Wheeler, east of St. Francis. The family lived in a granary built by Mr. Bader while they built their cement block house, which is still standing.

The Bader children attended South Star School nearby, where lessons were taught in the English language. They spoke German in the home, so the new language was taken home to the parents and siblings.

A big part of her life on the farm was spent helping grow all the food needed for the family in addition to their crops. She worked side by side with the men, women and older children in all kinds of weather. Those chores included herding, feeding and milking cows, separating milk and churning butter, butchering and preserving their meat and vegetables.

There were daily Bible readings, devotions and a lot of singing in their family, she said, as well as the playing of musical instruments. The Bader family were active in Lutheran church activities.

Mrs. Dankenbring claims to have grown up as a tomboy. However, she did learn how to sew, cook, keep a clean house, wash clothes on a washboard and other necessary household abilities.

As a young lady, after her confirmation, she attended Luther League gatherings.

It was at one of these she met her future husband, Vernon Wilhelm Dankenbring, who farmed with his father near Bird City. Meta and Vernon were married at St. John Lutheran Church on Aug. 27, 1940. They have four children; Phyllis, Mil, Keith and Victor, all of whom live in Cheyenne County today. Meta and Vernon celebrated 60 years of marriage before Vernon passed away earlier this summer.

A man wakes up in the morning after sleeping on an advertised bed, in advertised pajamas. He will bathe in an advertised tub, wash with advertised soap, shave with an advertised shaving cream, eat a breakfast of advertised juice, cereal and toast (toasted in an advertised toaster), put on advertised clothes, and glance at his advertised watch. He will ride to work in an advertised car, sit at an advertised desk and write with an advertised pen. Yet this man hesitates to advertise, saying that advertising doesn't pay. Finally, when his unadvertised business fails, he will advertise it for sale.

For your advertising needs, call Doug, Bill or Eric at 899-2338.
