

Runners prepare for meet

Cross-country team needs more help to be in the race

The Goodland Cowboys cross country team began practicing Monday but the coach said they still need runners to join the team.

Eight boys and five girls have signed up or expressed interest, Coach Don Smith said, but not all of them are practicing at this time.

A varsity cross country team needs between five and seven runners, Smith said, and must have at least five runners to post a team score.

“This is still a young team,” Smith said, “with no seniors, but we are trying to build a team.

“We are still looking for more runners because with any sport numbers are critical and our numbers are pretty negative right now.”

The boys’ team has three letter-winner returning in juniors Timothy Kafka and Shawn Weber and sophomore Speedy Aguilar, the coach said.

They have been joined by sophomores Josef Felver, Michael Mangus and Jordan Zweygardt and freshmen Daniel Blake and Craig Mason.

The girls’ team has three returning letter-winners in juniors Deanna Livengood and Wendy Keith and sophomore Chelsea Phillips, he said. Joining them is freshman Jennifer Enfield and they expect to have freshman Kelsi Ihrig as well.

The team will have their first competition at 4 p.m. on Thursday, Aug. 30, at home as they host the Goodland Invitational at Sugar Hills Country Club.

Freshman Jennifer Enfield ran past the high school in cross country practice this morning. The team began practicing Monday and is holding two practices a day to get ready for their home meet on Thursday, Aug. 30.
