

KU players suspended for game

LAWRENCE (AP) — Kansas football coach Terry Allen has suspended quarterback Mario Kinsey and running back Reggie Duncan for the opening game against Southwest Missouri State for unspecified violations of team rules.

Kinsey, a redshirt freshman, was in a tight battle for the starting quarterback job with sophomore Zach Dyer.

Dyer now will start against the Bears, of the Missouri Valley Conference.

Duncan is the team's starting running back. The sophomore had 207 yards on 54 carries last year when the Jayhawks finished 4-7.

"Both players understand the mistakes they have made," Allen said in a statement Monday. "They will serve their suspensions and be reinstated in good standing for the remainder of the season."

Tournament returns to Kansas City area

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — When the last ball bounced and the lights went out at Kemper Arena in 1993, many thought Kansas City had seen the last of the NAIA, a sports tradition dating back to 1937.

That was then, this is now. The NAIA announced Monday that its men's basketball tournament will return to Kansas City after the eight-year absence.

A five-year agreement will make Municipal Auditorium the home of the tournament through 2006, officials said at a news conference at Municipal. The women's tournament will remain in Jackson, Tenn.

The NAIA was headquartered in Kansas City from 1957 until 1993, when the organization moved to Tulsa, Okla.

In July, the NAIA, which represents 332 smaller colleges and universities, returned to the area, moving its headquarters to Olathe, Kan., a suburb of Kansas City.

The tournament had become a Kansas City tradition since the city hosted the inaugural tournament in 1937 at Municipal Auditorium. The event was held there until 1974, when it was moved to Kemper Arena.

On Monday, Kansas City-area business, sports and government officials expressed excitement about the tournament's return. It runs March 13-19.
