

A clown dressed in bright clothes and rainbow-colored hair sold balloons for a quarter each.

Gannon Ihrig (left), 6, and Gage Ihrig, 6, used pillows to knock each other off of a plastic tube at the annual Flatlander Fall Festival on Saturday. The game was one of many businesses and organizations set up on Main Avenue during the street festival.

Courtney Sheldon (above, left) as Little Red Riding Hood asked Zac Prine as Woolfie to read her a story in the play "Woolfie," sponsored by Little City Productions and performed at the Sherman Theater on Saturday. The play, which was part of the Flatlander Fall Festival, combined the fairy tales Little Red Riding Hood, The Three Little Pigs and Goldilocks and the Three Bears. Adrienne West (left), 11, made a big splash at the festival on Saturday, as she volunteered to man the dunk tank.

Janet Dare (above), Colorado Springs, looked under the hood of a 1955 Chevrolet sport coupe, which had spinning mirrors and a model car attached to the engine, on Saturday at the rod run. Hundreds of cars were parked on Main Avenue for the run, part of the Flatlander Fall Festival. Jeff Miller (right), Plainville, placed a tennis ball on a traffic cone Saturday evening as Theron Monroe, Plainville, tried to drive as slow as possible. Hundreds of bikers came to Goodland this weekend for the bike show, which was part of the festival also. They met behind Bankwest on Saturday to compete in games.

Photos by
Rachel Miscall and
Sharon Corcoran

FALL FEST

"Tad," a Chihuahua and terrier mix, participated in the scruffy dog contest on Saturday.