Lisa (Zweygardt) and James Bradley

Couple exchanges vows in St. Francis ceremony

Lisa Ann Zweygardt became the bride of James Ray Bradley in a double-ring ceremony on Nov. 10, 2001, at the United Methodist Church in St. Francis, performed by the Rev. Dennis Livingston.

The parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Zweygardt of St. Francis and the parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Rod Perry of Akron, Colo., and Ronald Bradley of Brewster.

Both the bride and groom are from Colby.

The pews were decorated with ivory candles in hurricane lanterns with light blue and ivory tulle bows and ivory flowers. The altar was adorned with ivory flowered topiaries highlighted with mini white lights and two candelabras with ivory candles and light blue and ivory tulle.

The bride, given away by her father, wore a white royal satin princess-cut gown with spaghetti straps. The bodice was decorated with lace and finished with beads and pearls. She carried a cascading bouquet of white roses and orchids.

The bride's sister, Pamela Zweygardt, St. Francis, served as maid of honor and the bridesmaid was Judy Perry of Akron. They wore long ice-blue, satin halter gowns and carried bouquets of blue hydrangeas.

Tammi Grice, St. Francis, was wedding coordinator and the bride's personal assistant.

The groom was attired in a black tuxedo with black vests and ties. His brothers Garrold Gallentine and Joseph Bradley, both of Colby, were the best man and groomsman, respectively. The junior groomsman was Zachary Zweygardt, St. Francis, brother of the bride. They also wore black tuxedos with black vests and ties.

Organist was Joan Wellman. She accompanied Amy Rieger as she sang "When You Say Nothing At All" and "I Do Cherish You." Candlelighters were the maid of honor and bridesmaid.

A reception was held in the Methodist Church Fellowship hall. A three-tier cake, baked by the groom's mother, was served by Melissa Zweygardt, aunt of the bride, and Christina and Samantha Zweygardt, cousins of the bride. Sarah Green of Atwood, and Millie Stabbs, Omaha, presided over the tea table.

Sitting at the guest book table was Amanda Howard of Colby, and Angie Foster, Colby, presided at the gift table.

Honored guests were the bride's grandparents Grace Zweygardt, St. Francis, and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Wulf, Goodland; great-grandmother of the bride Louella Bofman, Good Samaritan Center, Atwood; and grandparents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Brown, Protection, Kan., and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Perry, Akron.

Lisa is a 1998 graduate of St. Francis Community High School and attended Colby Community College, where she received an associate's degree. She works at Kansas Quick Lube.

The groom is a 1998 graduate of Arickaree High School in Colorado and graduated from Colby Community College with an associate's degree. He now works for Schwans.

Dry winter makes watering the lawn critical

We normally don't think of watering our lawns this time of year, but with the dry conditions and lack of snow, irrigation may be critical to keeping turf healthy for the coming year.

Without snow cover, which acts as both a moisture source and turf insulator, lawns are exposed to the cold, dry weather that has prevailed for the past month or two. Under these circumstances, turf is vulnerable to desiccation, a winter version of drought stress, which can have lasting consequences if left unchecked.

Even though turf is not growing now, moisture that remains in the leaves and in the soil gradually evaporates as cold, dry winds pass over the lawn surface. The tender root system of a turfgrass stand tends to remain more active than the top growth, and permanent root system damage can result if soils remain too dry.

Consequences of winter desiccation injury won't be noticed until spring, but can be prevented in the meantime.

The best way to counteract the potential for injury is to periodically water the lawn as long as we are without snow cover. With winter watering, try to apply roughly one-half inch of water to help wet the soil to a four- to six-inch depth. This will help keep the soil and roots hydrated.

Be sure to water only during warm spells so that the applied water can effectively soak in, rather than immediately freezing on the lawn surface. Properly targeted lawn watering can also help water trees and ornamental plantings in the landscape, which are often equally or more sensitive to winter desiccation.

Finally, be sure to detach hoses after you finish watering to keep pipes from freezing when temperatures become cold again. Following these tips can help ensure healthy and attractive lawns and landscapes for the coming spring, which will be here before we know it.
