People moving into center

jan zwetzig

• goodland gazette

I've started to work on this column several times towards the end of the week. Each time, something else came up and I left to do something else.

I went to Wheat Ridge center to visit friends Eva Briney and Leila Sturrock the other evening. There have been several new residents within the last couple of weeks joining the family of residents.

Leila told me that Vera Daise, Velma Scheopner, Myrtle Vinduska and Dorothy Heiny have recently moved in. There are a couple more and their families that are in the process of considering a move to the center.

Nola Kehlbeck is now living in California with her daughter, and one other lady's family is looking for a new residence for their mother in Denver.

A couple have made the move to the Good Samaritan Center for care in their needs. We as a community need to remember all of these people and their families as they struggle through these medical needs.

So if you have a spare moment or two, drop in and say hello to these, or elder seniors. If that's impossible, mail a card to some in both centers. You'll never know how grateful these people are to receive just a card or two. Thanks for your care.

It's gotten to the point that I almost don't care to read the daily newspapers. Seems there is nothing but hate and ill will in the world, and so many of our own citizens are unhappy about the current events in our own community.

Now, I'm the last one to know of a cure, but maybe we need to return to our faith during these troubled times as the layreader stated in his Sunday talk to our parish.

I'm sorry that more in the community didn't get to hear his talk; it was wonderful. It certainly gave me much food for thought and hopefully a seed of faith has been planted in our community.

I noticed in The Salina Journal that Lois McClain passed away over the weekend. I've known Lois for a good number of years, both as a former dental patient and a loyal worker at the hospital.

I would like to express my sincere sympathy to her immediate family and all of her supportive family members and friends. I know I'll miss seeing her at the hospital.

May God be with her on her journey to her new home. He'll be with you all and remember that in the darkest of times we get the strength from the Almighty to face the current pangs.

I have a few birthdays to announce. Among them are my sister Martha who continues to have problems with her knees; Chris O'Brien, a former resident who is now in El Dorado; Debra Mercer; Lea Acuff; and one of my special girls, Ashley Ashley. Best wishes to these and any others having another year added to their calendar of life.

Neighbor Ana joined others in a group from school that are in Topeka, I think, for some school function. It's the group of kids taking what I knew as home economics but that now has a different name that I can't for the life of me remember. Sorry kids, but I guess there has been a change over the years.

I'm planning on going to Colby Saturday evening for the annual production of the Tumbleweed chorus. Friend Lucille Nash always treats a few of us to this program of which her late husband Bob was a charter member.

They usually have other performers during the evening, but I'm not sure of who or how many. Following the actual performance, there is a very casual presentation by those on the program. It's an enjoyable evening; if you are looking for something to do, go to Colby for some entertainment.

Where's our inch of promised rain over the weekend? I heard that promise on Friday and have waited for it to happen, but here it is early Monday morning and no rain.

In fact, I cleaned up my car on Sunday afternoon and where I washed my car on the lawn, it certainly looks greener than the rest of the lawn. Maybe, just maybe, the car washing will prime the heavenly wells to treat us to a much needed moisture. Let's hope so.

I went to the soup and pie meal at the Lutheran Church Saturday evening. It was very busy when I was there. I saw about two dozen or more of the regular senior center attendees out for the meal. I'm always amazed at the response in our community at these events behalf of the church members, thank you all.

Last but not least, good wishes and God speed to Debbie Snethen who will begin an arduous medical treatment this week. May you know and feel God's hand with you as you undergo these treatments. Hurry back home to your family and friends.

I see no further notes or items, so I will close and get it to the paper. Take care of each other, and, God willing, I will "see" you all next week.
