Family visits grandparents in Brewster and tours northwest Kansas

Betty Wolfe was busy last week, and it sounds like she and Corky had a lot of company and did a lot of sightseeing. Visitors for the week of July 12 were her grandchildren, Leslie and Eddie Ballmann, and their two children, Jacqueline, 8 1/2 years old, and Cordell, 5 1/2 year old, of Maysville, Ark.

They arrived the evening of the 12th, and the next day, they took a tour to Monument Rocks. When they returned to Brewster, they spent the evening with Leslie's Mom, Gloria Tiedeman and Lawrence, who joined the family for dinner.

On Sunday, Uncle Kenneth and Aunt Lila Engelhardt, along with Danae West of Colby and Lawrence Tiedeman joined the family for dinner, while Gloria was working.

On Monday, the Ballmanns went to Gloria and Lawrence's for supper. Wednesday, Sue Baird, great aunt of Leslie, joined the Wolfe's for dinner, and later, the Ballmann's and Corky and Betty went to Kenneth and Lila's for a while.

Thursday brought a trip to Bird City for a viewing of the old tractors and steamers, then dinner at the Butterfly Cafe and a trip through the Goodland museum.

On Friday morning, the Ballman's left for home, with many happy memories and left two tired, but happy grandparents.

The "heat's still on," but perhaps we're starting to get used to it, as it doesn't seem to be bothering folks as much. Not that everyone wouldn't be happy to see it rain and cool off a little, but it does seem like people are getting out a little more.

Today, we had 23 on hand for the potluck lunch at the Senior Center, and there was such a variety of food, it was a real banquet. Seemed like everyone was just ready to get on with normal activities, which may be the only way to overcome the weather. At any rate, it was definitely a good meal!

As you all know, I like to report happy things, and I have one this week. Gloria Ribordy called me the other morning and said her daughter, Ronda Weirich of Lakin, is now home from the hospital and doing very well.

Ronda and her husband, Nate, are expecting a baby in December. She has had a very difficult time, but now it seems that everything is looking much better. Ronda wants everyone to know how much they appreciate the cards, calls, prayers and encouragement that everyone has sent their way. She also appreciates the way everyone helped Grandma Gloria take care of Sydney while she was incapacitated.

I think we can tell Ronda that we are just happy that all is going so great, and we look forward to seeing the new member of the family once he (or she) gets here.

I had a letter from Pat Wright of Oberlin in regards to her mother, Mariam Allison, formerly of Brewster. Mariam would have turned 93 years old Sunday and was a resident of the Oberlin Good Samaritan Center. She died Saturday.

Pat said she was not doing real great physically but was still sharp mentally. Notes and cards of condolence can be sent to Pat Wright, 311 N. Wilson, Oberlin, Kan. 67749.

Other news from former residents included a letter from Etta Coffey who informed us that her husband George passed away on July 13 after a short illness. Mr. Coffey graduated from Brewster High School in 1935 and was co-Grand Marshal of the Homecoming parade in 2000 with two other graduates, Bob Baird and LaVelle Michael.

It's official - the annual hot-dog/watermelon feed sponsored by the Northwest Kansas Heritage Center and Library will be Friday, August 16, at the Football Field.

It will be held at the Football Field since the park has just been reseeded. So, be sure to note the time and change of location and enjoy meeting new friends and old and helping the library meet its expenses for the coming year. The time for serving will begin at 6:30 p.m. See you there!

I mentioned the change in the hot-dog and watermelon feed, but according to the Sherman County Herald, August 12, 1976, the intersection of Kansas and Main was the location of the first Town 'N Country Hot-dog and Watermelon Feed.

Later, in the Prairie Drummer, it was reported that it was an old-fashioned

How can parents deal with anger?

As much as parents would like to be in charge and in control of their children, it is just not possible to be a perfect parent.

Wouldn't it be great if children obeyed and behaved well all the time! The reality is that brothers and sisters fight, babies cry and toddlers say "no."

Add in the stresses of daily life, as well as a lack of sleep, and parents can feel overwhelmed and react angrily. Anger is a normal reaction, but it can often be misplaced when adults are dealing with children.

Consider the following:

- Ask yourself if the anger is a legitimate reaction to the child's behavior or the result of something else, such as problems at work or other stressors.
- Take time to stop and cool off before you say or do something you will regret. Get control of your feelings by slowly counting to ten or stepping into another room or outside for a few minutes.
- Look at the situation and try to determine what is really happening. Talk it over with those involved. Use "I" statements rather than "you" statements. For example say, "I am very upset about this" instead of "You make me so angry!"

- Decide who owns the problem, you or the child. Allowing a child to take responsibility for his actions is a good learning experience.
- Problem solve - determine possible solutions and follow through.
- Avoid lecturing and lengthy explanations; keep your comments short and to the point. Take time for further discussion after everyone is calmed down and the situation in control.
- Try not to take everything personally that a child says or does. Let them know how you feel, then suggest better ways for them to react or respond. It is important for children to understand that anger is a normal human emotion experienced by them as well as adults.

Everyone involved will feel better when they are in better control of those emotions. Learning how to express anger in a positive manner is a skill needed throughout life.

get-together, with weather and wind cooperating. It has been an annual affair since that time with the exception of 1988, when the Centennial was the big celebration. So Betty hopes you will make this one the biggest and best ever.

Duane and Ruth Jones left on July 10th for Greeley, Colo., to meet Linda Hoffner for a flight from Denver on the 11th to Elgin, Texas, for a visit with Monna Rose and Mike Blank and Aaron, Janelle, April and Allie Blank.

The visitors returned to Denver on the 14th, and Ruth and Duane enjoyed a visit with Larry and Linda Hoffner and other relatives before coming home on July 18th.

Several Brewster fellows have had some pretty narrow escapes in recent days. I know it happened a few weeks ago, but we are sure happy Brian Eicher is nearly healed from the tussle he had with a windmill.

While returning home from a Veterans of Foreign Wars meeting last week, Bill Selby was in a head-on accident near Dorrance with a mini-van that the driver had fallen asleep in. Another close call!

And, Harvey Benham suffered a broken collarbone and fractured vertebrae in a fall from a horse earlier this week. We are very thankful that these men are still with us, and more important, still with their families.

Jane Keck spent a few days in the Colby hospital following an allergic reaction, and we are happy to report that she is doing fine now. So, we pray that all will stay healthy and safe, and we'll see you next time!
