Dehydration causes senior to quit football

LAWRENCE (AP) — Harrison Hill, a senior wide receiver at Kansas, has left the team after continuing to suffer from dehydration, coach Mark Mangino said Sunday.

"He has not been able to keep fluids in his body," Mangino said. "He has fought through it, but at this point in time he can't get over the hump."

Hill, who had been granted a sixth year of eligibility by the NCAA after breaking his shoulder blade in four places during the Jayhawks' second game of 2001, leaves the school with 108 career receptions for 1,535 yards and seven touchdowns.

A starter in 34 of his 36 games at Kansas, Hill led the team and was fifth in the Big 12 with 47 catches for 591 yards in 2000.

The Wichita native needed just 26 catches to take the school's career lead in receptions.

"I have dealt with heat and dehydration problems since high school," Hill

"The doctors have tried everything they can to help me get over the problem, but it keeps getting worse."

Bears' first team matches Broncos

Denver smashes Chicago 23-7 in opener

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Chicago running the Bears offense, throwing to Bears coach Dick Jauron thought his receivers who weren't even looking for starters played well enough against the the ball and overthrowing those who Denver Broncos, even if it was only for a couple of series.

"Our first team was pretty good, and it went downhill after that," Jauron

The Denver Broncos held Chicago to just 44 total yards in a 27-3 victory Saturday night—the Bears' first home game in Champaign this season while Soldier Field is being renovated.

The Bears had minus-9 yards of offense in the first half and just one first Football League, said he hoped to learn down, though the defense did force one turnover and three punts on Denver's first four possessions.

times for a loss of 46 yards — two of which resulted in fumbles that were recovered by Denver deep in Bears territory.

Denver converted both of those into Jason Elam field goals, and added a first-half touchdown when backup quarterback Steve Beuerlein found tight end Dwayne Carswell for a 5-yard "I thought we made some plays on both sides of the football, but at the same time it still looked a little bit like the first preseason game," Broncos coach Mike Shanahan said. During the first touchdown drive, rookie Clinton Portis ran five times for 21 yards. The second-round draft pick out of Miami finished with 57 yards rushing. Broncos quarterback Brian Griese was 7-of-9 passing for 48 yards, and Beuerlein finished 9-of-12 for 78 yards and a touchdown. Shanahan said he wasn't surprised by the sloppy play, and that he expected seasoned players like Beuerlein to be a little sharper than the rookies.

"He's a veteran player who's been in the league for about 45 years and he's got a lot of experience and he's seen a lot of defenses," Shanahan said. "People forget that a few years ago, he was a Pro Bowl player."

Chicago quarterback Henry Burris went 6-of-19 for 49 yards and was intercepted twice. He looked lost at times

Burris was also sacked three times, and both interceptions were thrown directly at Broncos defenders.

"I didn't think Henry played particularly well. Whether it was everyone around him not doing what they're supposed to be doing, or whether it was just him," Jauron said. "He seemed a little reckless out there."

Burris, a former star in the Canadian from his first game with the Bears and hold on to his third-string spot.

who rushed for a Chicago rookie record of 1,183 yards last season, lost two yards on four carries. Backup Leon Johnson didn't fare much better, gaining three yards on five carries.

Tony Carter scored on a 1-yard touchdown run on fourth down early in the second half, and reserve quarterback Jarious Jackson added a late 3yard touchdown run for the Broncos.

Chicago's only score was set up by star linebacker Brian Urlacher. With the ball at the Denver 15, Urlacher stopped Olandis Gary on a run up the middle for no gain, then sacked Griese on the next play and forced the quarterback to fumble.

Urlacher recovered the ball, drawing one of the few cheers during a flat first half for the Chicago starters. The Bears settled for a 36-yard field goal by Paul Edinger despite losing four yards on four plays. Broncos running back Terrell Davis, who has been plagued by injuries the last three years, didn't play. He said he started experiencing swelling in his knee, and it got worse. "I'm just sort of puzzled at how it's acting right now," he said. "I was anticipating and looking forward to going out there and really having a great time on the field, but it just wouldn't allow me to do it."

'We're hoping that after three or four years they will have married and settled down," giving them more reasons to stay in Kansas, McKinney said.

The loan program was modeled after a similar program Kansas has used to lure physicians to rural areas, McKinney said. Now the Kansas Board of Regents is working out details to get the program started. It isn't yet clear when the loans will be available or how many students might be able to take advantage of them, said Diane Lindeman, the regents' director of student financial aid.

Loans will be made available according to a student's need. The regents also have to set up a list of educational programs in which an applicant must enroll to be eligible for the plan.
