Identity theft a problem in Brewster; county fairs keep people busy

It has been brought to my attention that there are local people who have had someone try to use their identity to purchase large items. This is a scary thing to happen to anyone, and whoever would try to take someone else's character and reputation is the worst kind of criminal.

A few years ago, we were encouraged to use our social security number for identity purposes, but now it is being discouraged. I am looking into how easy it is to have these numbers removed from our drivers licenses and other legal items that we are required to have.

It upsets me to see the damage that this kind of activity does to the peace of mind of people who have always prided themselves on having a good credit reputation and have done nothing that should bring them the kind of hassling they are experiencing.

I guess we have to start thinking about our business dealings in a new way now. I would like to hear from those that are having similar problems and any advice they might have for people to avoid it or to fix it if it happens.

This has been an eventful week with the local fairs winding down in one county and getting started in another. It seems my dad's old saying that if it doesn't rain during the fair, it is really a drought, has held true.

It did rain thanks to the fairs and the activities that accompany them. Actually, we know it is the Lord we need to thank, but it does seem that certain activities make rain more of a certainty.

It may be too late to help this year's crops, but it will be a boon to next year's if we can get some more just like it. Everything has taken on new color and new life, it seems, after having the dust rinsed off.

The Senior Center was a hub of activity in Brewster Wednesday. Laura Withington brought her Bird Fest to town, and all who attended thoroughly enjoyed the activities. Laura asked me not to be too explicit since she hasn't yet been to all the areas that will be "going to the birds."

I will say that when your turn comes, you will enjoy it, and you won't want to leave the nest early. Okay, Laura, have I egged them on enough?

We were also joined by relatives from Wyoming during these festivities. Dick and Linda Weber of Casper and their granddaughter Shawn of Oberlin joined us for lunch and also observed the activities.

In fact, Shawn was very much a part of the events, and her eyes lit up at the things she was able to join in on.

Dick and Linda were in the area visiting relatives in Oberlin and squeezed in a visit to his uncle, LaVelle Michael, and cousin, Roger Michael. They may be going to Africa for missionary work through their church in the near future, and they wanted to be sure to see their family before the time comes for them to go.

Marilyn Schindler received word on Friday that her mother, Sarah Boehme of Goodland, passed away in Hays following surgery earlier in the week.

Marilyn says Sarah's funeral will be at 10 a.m. Wednesday at Koons Chapel in Goodland. My sympathy goes to Marilyn and Arnold and the other members of Sarah's family.

Minnie Belle and Don Jones brought in a notice of death of Minnie Belle's nephew, Kenneth D. Eicher, 53, of Loveland, Colo. He was born in Brewster in 1949 to Carl and Helen (Frasier) Eicher. He had lived in Colorado for most of his adult life. My sympathy to his family.

Several years ago, I printed a notice of someone's death that had a very similar name to a local person, and despite how hard I tried to make it clear, some still misread it, and I received several calls for information. I am hoping no one misreads any more notices.

Ross Tygart will be buried on Saturday at the Brewster Cemetery following a graveside service. There will be a luncheon for family and friends at the senior center following the service.

The annual hot dog/watermelon feed will be Friday at the football field in Brewster. This is sponsored by the Heritage Center and is the main source of income that keeps them open all year long.

Be sure to make a point of going, enjoying a nice evening of local fellowship and meeting the new members of Brewster.

There will also be a preview of the high school talent that will be entertaining at games and special events and the teams that will provide the excitement in sports activities.

Be generous in your support of our Heritage Center as well.

That's about it for this week. Roger and I are planning a little fishing trip after church, so maybe I'll have a fish tale for you next week. In the meantime, have a great week and stay healthy.
