4-H is open to 7-to-19-year-olds in urban, suburban and rural areas

While 4-H had its beginnings in rural America, it now serves youth in urban and suburban as well as rural communities. Kansas 4-H is open to youth between the ages of 7 and 19. The new 4-H year starts in October, so many prefer to join 4-H at the start of the school year. However, 4-H enrollment is open year round, so youth can join any time.

4-H is a nationwide program led by state land-grant universities in cooperation with local county/district extension councils. In Kansas, 4-H is the largest youth educational program, aside from public schools.

Each of the four H's on the clover represent ways youth can grow and develop in 4-H. The four H's represent: head — critical thinking and problem solving; heart — self-discipline, integrity and communication; hands — serving others; and health — choosing healthy lifestyles.

There are two kinds of 4-H clubs that youth may join: community clubs and project clubs. Community clubs include youth who enroll in a variety of projects, while project club members enroll in the same project.

Community clubs typically have structured business meetings and emphasize community service, recreational activities and improving communication skills. In a project club, similar meetings and community activities are conducted with focus on a specific project. In either type of 4-H club, youth have fun with a purpose.

In this busy world, schedules often send family members in a variety of directions. 4-H can bring families together. 4-H families learn together.

They plan meetings, events, projects and activities together.

Family members help out as club leaders, project leaders, meeting helpers, transportation aides and in a variety of other ways. Parental involvement can help ensure the best learning experience for your child.

As part of the 4-H experience, 4-H members are encouraged to learn about and contribute to the betterment of their communities. 4-H also utilizes a variety of community resources to enhance the educational experience of members. Those resources may include meeting places, guest speakers, volunteers and field trips.

In 4-H, youth learn by doing. Much of that learning happens through project experiences. From beef to bicycles, electricity to entomology, forestry to food science, photography to plant science and rabbits to rockets, Kansas 4-H offers 29 project areas designed to develop the wide range of interests that appeal to today's young people. In addition to subject-matter skills, many young people develop interests that last a lifetime.

Club participation, projects and friendships with other members become memorable parts of the 4-H program. Equally important are the skills that last a lifetime. Successful adults often credit their experiences in 4-H as turning points in their lives.

They credit planning, organization and public speaking skills as essential to their success. The Kansas 4-H Program has played a leadership role in identifying the five life skills most needed to help young people. Skills learned in 4-H last a lifetime. They include positive self-concept, an inquiring mind, a concern for the community, healthy interpersonal relationships and sound decision making.

The 4-H Program, like many other youth groups, relies heavily on volunteers, who are involved in nearly every aspect of the program. More than 16,000 volunteers work directly with 4-H youth throughout the year as club leaders and project specialists. Another 3,500 assist with events, club organization and 4-H promotion.

For more information about joining 4-H, contact any club leader or member or the Sherman County Extension Office at 785-899-4880.

'Barrel-body' killing jury in second day of deliberation

By John Milburn

Associated Press Writer
OLATHE — After undergoing three weeks of jury selection and listening to three weeks of testimony, jurors have started to consider the evidence presented in the multiple-murder case against John E. Robinson Sr.

Jurors were to resume their deliberations at 9 a.m. at the Johnson County Courthouse after more than seven hours of work Monday. Jurors are being sequestered at an undisclosed location for the duration of deliberations.

Robinson, 58, is charged with capital murder in the deaths of Suzette Trouten, 27, who moved to Kansas from Michigan in early 2000, and Izabela Lewicka, 21, a former Purdue University student. The first-degree murder charge stems from the death of Lisa Stasi, 19, who disappeared in 1985 and has never been found.

In Missouri, Robinson awaits arraignment on capital murder charges in the deaths of Beverly Bonner, 49, of Cameron, Mo., and Sheila Faith, 45, and her daughter Debbie, 16, both formerly of California. Those bodies were found on June 5, 2000, in barrels at a storage locker in Raymore, Mo.

Prosecutors said the deaths in Kansas and Missouri are connected and called Robinson a predator who trolled the Internet looking for women to be his sex slaves. He lured some of them to Kansas with the promise of employment, sadomasochist sex or both.

They also claim Robinson schemed to take money intended for the victims by cashing checks in their names after their deaths.

If convicted of capital murder, Robinson's trial would move to a sentencing phase, where the defense plans to present evidence that Robinson suffers from mental disease, including a bipolar mood disorder, characterized by pronounced mood swings.

If jurors find Robinson guilty of first-degree murder in the cases of Trouten and Lewicka, Anderson will set a sentencing date and the trial is complete. First-degree murder carries a minimum sentence of 25 years in prison.

Jurors also must decide if Robinson is guilty of lesser charges of kidnapping, interference with parental custody and theft of sex toys from a psychologist with whom he had a sadomasochistic encounter over four days in April 2000.
