November starts with changing weather and falling leaves

Here it is almost the fifth of November and time for another column for the paper. The past week was one of a mixed bag of weather, everything but sunshine.

The leaves on most trees are down and now frozen together with that little moisture we received.

The weather raised Cain on the number of trick-or-treaters, at least at my house. I only had about a dozen, a figure a lot of other people had. I did hear one lady telling of the 40 or 50 she had and having goblins as late as 9 p.m.

I turned my lights off earlier as the kids were getting bigger and bigger. One group told me they came from the game during half-time for some treats.

The weather certainly played a part in the football game. I didn't go, as I still am trying to be careful, since I had

jan zwetzig

● goodland gazette

that bad cold or whatever you want to call it.

One lady said she went because it was on Thursday night, and she can never make it on Friday due to other commitments. She said her family about froze their bodies and had to leave early.

I'm sorry the Cowboys lost, but that's the way things go. I hoped Tuesday evening will be better, but the Cowboys lost by a hair. It's been a good year despite Tuesday's loss.

There are still many battling this stuff going around. I guess the only things that help are time and rest. Maybe a little antibiotics helps in some cases, but for the most part, it runs its course.

Since it's caused by a virus, there is really no medication for an early cure. I don't know if it is of the strain that these flu shots help.

Several are having some major medical problems that have required going to larger hospitals for help. Loretta Hayden was air-lifted to Denver over the weekend, as she continued to have serious problems. Let's hope she'll be home by the time you read this. Get well, Loretta.

The church's annual chicken noodle dinner and bake sale is Saturday. It's also opening day of pheasant season, so the weather may turn icky, as it does so many times this time of year.

Give the church ladies a try, and you might find it worth your while. Don't forget that we have an elevator on the south side of the church. There will be someone there to help operate it. See you Saturday, God willing.

I will try to get my church work done by Thursday evening, as I'll need to use my Friday afternoon to bake six pumpkin pies for the dinner Saturday.

It will be another busy weekend that, as far as I know, will be one of the last church or organizational fund raisers for a while. Thanks to all who have supported these groups in the past month or so.

Thanksgiving is coming up very fast. At this point I've no definite plans for the day. I will see what happens.

I have birthday greetings for "Smitty" Smith, Carol Pettijohn and any others having a special day. I don't have any anniversaries on my calendar, but best wishes to any who might have one.

I see no other notes around the computer, so I will sign off for another issue. Take care and see you next week.

correction

In the Friday edition of The Goodland Daily News the program that won an award from the Kansas Association of Broadcasters was incorrectly titled, "Goodland Great American Outdoor Trails Magazine."

The program, hosted by Jim Ferguson, is named "Great American Outdoor Magazine" and is advertised as "The Wilkens Truck and Trailer Great American Outdoor Trails Magazine." The show was on Goodland radio station KWGB from Oct. 5, 2001, to Sept. 28, 2002, and is now on Colby radio station KQLS. This was a reporting error.
