Church men present Last Supper drama

Holy Week got off to a good start with the rains and was a busy week. I did get all the church work done on time and was ready for the weekend.

I went to the Maundy Thursday service at the Baptist church to the invitation of Doc Whitmore. Our church didn't have any, so it was nice to go there. The men of the church presented a dramatization of the Last Supper.

Each of the men were dressed in garments of that time and each gave a brief description of who they were before their calling to be one of Christ's disciples.

It was very nicely done, and I left with a good feeling. A big thank you to the men and Pastor Bud for the performance. Thanks to Doc for the invite.

I didn't make it to any of the Good Friday services, as I was not feeling up to par. In fact, I just cooled the whole weekend and got over the weird achy feeling I had. I did make it to church, but other than that, I stayed home. I got my washing done and started this column.

Birthdays are just of one, Don Wieck on the 25th. Al and Rosette Lindsten have an anniversary on the 26th. I hope Al is feeling better since his return from the hospital. Best wishes to these folks and any others celebrating.

I couldn't believe the number of deaths that have had an effect on some of the people in the community.

I didn't know most but want to wish my sincere condolences to their family and friends, among them, Oscar Aaron, Millie Enfield, Anna Miller, Ivah Murray, Bob Pruitt, Verl Bowen (brother of Velda Bramer), Ruby Hawes, Martha Linville (wife of Ed) and Elna Dickey.

I don't believe I've ever seen such a rash of deaths at one time. May all of these people know that the Almighty is and will be with them.

I still have some very sick people, among them Mary Schippert, Mary David and Bette Bebb, all of which were still in the hospital at the time of this column. Best wishes and a speedy return to their homes. Betty Saint is home and hopefully feeling better each day.

I spent some time with the McClungs Easter morning and learned that Laura has had this stuff going around and was on her fifth day of misery. I hope she'll get to feeling better, and none of the others get this stuff.

I had fun treating my little neighborhood kids on Sunday. A treat for my kids at school was done Monday morning, and there were a bunch of happy kids. I got plenty of hugs from them. It's a joy to be around these kids, and I hope my time with them will be rewarding down the years ahead.

I talked to my sister and brother-in-law over the weekend. Troubles continue to dot their lives. My nephew Gary had to have a pin put in his wrist and will be having to have therapy down the road.

My brother-in-law was diagnosed with cancer several months ago, and the chemo treatments have helped. But as a safe guard, he will start radiation this week. He was having those treatments when they were here, when I was in the hospital, and was feeling fine, no side effects from the drugs.

There's always something. I hope all goes well with them. I will get back there one of these weekends. There's nothing further, so I will sign off until next week.
