

4-Hers looking sharp!

Ashtin McClung, 9 months (above), supported her older brother and sister Ana and Jonathan with his parents Gary and Laura at the Blast from Fashion 4-H Style Revue July 31. Nolan Deeds and Alex Goodwin (left) demonstrate the latest in football fashion while giving each other a high five.

Photos by Shannon Davidson/The Goodland Star-News

4-H show top fashion

The 4-H "Blast from Fashion" Public Style Revue took place Thursday at the Sherman Theatre, with competition in clothing construction, crochet, needlework and style.

Proud family members and friends gathered in support of 4-H members who either made or purchased clothing to model. Each age group and division of clothing participants got to write down commentary describing the articles of clothing they modeled. The commentary was read by former 4-H members, as they were called out on stage.

Darin Richardson sang before the show and during a brief intermission. All participants after the show gave their sponsor LaDonna Frerich's flowers in appreciation for all her hard work to make the show happen.

In Clothing Construction level 1, champion was Sydney Winston and Amber Perdeu was reserve champion.

Level 2 champion was Nicole Hendrich and Melissa Holloway as reserve champion.

Level 3 champion was Jonathan McClung for his vest and reserve champion also went to McClung for his suit coat.

Level 4 champion was Megan Sheldon and Ana McClung was reserve champion.

In the Junior Clothing Construction division, Jonathan McClung was the champion and Nicole Hendrich was reserve champion.

In the Senior Clothing Construction division, Megan Sheldon was the champion and Stephanie Sheldon was reserve champion.

The Crochet division champion was Megan Leonard and Ana McClung was reserve champion.

Needlework division champion was Leah Shores and Jonathan McClung was reserve champion.

In Style Revue Judging, Junior Boys Buymanship division champion was Brennen Clouse and Hazen Deeds was reserve champion.

Junior Girls Buymanship division champion was Shelbi Herl and Jacee Herl and Courtney Sheldon tied for reserve honors.

Senior Girls Buymanship division champion was Melissa Schritter and Bailee Guyer as reserve champion.

Junior Constructed champion was Jonathan McClung with Nicole Hendrich as reserve champion.

Senior Constructed champion was Megan Sheldon with Stephanie Sheldon as reserve champion.

The cat show champion, judged earlier, was Brennen Clouse and Chelsie Gausman had the reserve champion.

The Hand Pet division champion was Sara Studer and there was no reserve champion.

The Aquarium division champion was Ryan Irvin and Clouse showed the reserve champion.

Connie Sheldon cried with happiness for her granddaughter Courtney Sheldon, 12, took part in the Blast from Fashion 4-H Style Revue Thursday. Courtney was awarded the reserve grand champion for the dress she purchased and added accessories.

Megan Leonard displayed one of her outfits during the Blast from Style 4-H style revue Thursday. Leonard won Champion plaque and rosette for her crochet project later that night.

From the balcony of the Sherman County Theatre a packed house watched the Blast from Fashion 4-H Style Revue. Family and Friends all came out to support children that participated Thursday July 31. It was the last night for the old seats, and the outside rows were removed after the evening show.