

4-Hers receive achievement awards

Sherman County 4-H clubs held their annual achievement awards program Sunday, Nov. 2, at the First Christian Church.

Receiving the Key Award, the highest 4-H achievement award was Michael Hall.

The Farm Credit Association Trophy for the best set of records went to Clay Schilling and Ana McClung.

Family and Consumer Science silver tray winners were Ana McClung and Sydney Winston. This award is given to a Junior and

Hall

Winston

Senior that accumulated the most points in the Family and Consumer Science Area at the Northwest Kansas District Free Fair.

The I Dare You Award was presented to Ashley Cook and Michael Hall.

This year Terry and Terri

Richardson received the Friend of 4-H Award. The award is presented to individuals or groups which have contributed to the Sherman County 4-H Program in an extraordinary way.

Terry and Terri Richardson have contributed an enormous amount of time and energy to the success of the Sherman County 4-H program.

"Little T" (Terry) was a member of the Ruleton Eager Beaver's 4-H club and was active in many projects including the sheep, cooking, and photography projects. She was a member of the Prairie Dusters Ridding club.

The Richardsons have three children, Michelle, Scott and Darin, and two grandsons Aaron and Austin. Michelle and Scott were both active members of the County Clovers 4-H club and Darin was a member of the Glendale Livewires for 12 years.

Terri has been the county dog project leader for over 12 years. In that project it has been estimated she has had over 200 4-H members and spent over 600 hours standing in the 4-H arena coaching eager members.

That in no way figures the many hours of individual help she provides members, or the hours spent taking kids to dog shows and supporting them at state fair. Then there is all the time and effort she puts into the dog show at the county fair and all the hours she has devoted to helping neighboring counties with their programs by holding clinics, judging dogs, pets and numerous other projects.

Terri could not do this without the support from her husband and family. "Big T" (Terry) has been there to support, set up, tear down and help in any way he can. Through out the years he has helped auctioneer the county 4-H livestock sale and is now the head auctioneer. Terry does a wonderful job getting buyers to actively participate and always makes the livestock sale a great experience for all those involved.

The Friend of 4-H Award was given to the Richardsons for continuing to work with 4-H members even after their family has grown into adulthood.

Other achievement awards presented include individual and club awards.
