A Sharon Springs student had the third-place speech at the Kansas Veterans of Foreign Wars state Voice of Democracy banquet Saturday.

Kyler Knobbe of Sharon Springs received a $500 scholarship. Second-place winner Grant Hodges of Salina got a $750 scholarship.

The contest provides high school students with an opportunity to write and record a three- to five-minute speech on a patriotic theme chosen by the group's national commander in chief.

This year's theme is "Freedom's Challenge." State winners go to Washington in March to enjoy the nation's capital and to compete for $150,000 in scholarships.

Department and national officers at the banquet included the national Commander Gary Kurpius from Alaska.

Joe and Jo Ann Wahrman of Goodland are the department Voice of Democracy chairs.

Girl Scouts begin selling cookies today

If you've been longing all year for your next taste of Thin Mints or Peanut Butter Patties, or wondering what the new flavor of Girl Scout cookies will be, the wait is over.

Girl Scouts listen to their customers.

Girls will be selling cookies through Sunday, Jan. 28. If you don't hear from a little cookie seller soon, call Jackie Buller at 890-6547.

She said the girls manage inventory, set goals, learn money management and develop marketing skills. Essentially, they run their own business.

The cookie program is an integral part of Girl Scouting's Business and Economic Literacy initiative for girls 6 through 17, said Monica Legleiter, membership specialist for Girl Scouts of Sunflower Council.

Troops use money from the cookie activity to pay for a service project or a trip. Many successful women have credited their business skills to the cookie sale.

Cookies available are Cartwheels (oatmeal and cinnamon), Caramel Delights, Peanut Butter Patties, Classic Shortbread, Thin Mints, Peanut Butter Sandwiches, Lemonades and Thanks a Lot (shortbread with fudge).

"The Girl Scout Cookie Program is a valuable part of the Girl Scout experience," said Chief Executive Officer Linda Mills.

All varieties of Girl Scout cookies are now made without trans fats, the council says.

Proceeds from cookie sales also go to support programs for girls and training for volunteers across the area.

Girl Scouts of Sunflower Council serves 16 counties in northwest Kansas, financed by contributions, cookie sale, fees and the United Way in some areas.
