Goodland The Star-News / Friday, October 10 Display opens with reception The Star-News / Friday, October 10, 2008 3a

Fall cleanup planned

The students of Goodland High School can come to your rescue by raking leaves and hauling off trash as part of their fall cleanup day from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 29.

This is a community service project that the high school students do. Each group of students with a supervisor heads out with tools in hand to rake and clean up yards.

The students can not pick up tires, large appliances, no household hazardous wastes and no tree limbs more than four feet in length.

Organizer and teacher Connie Livengood said community members need to sign up for the free service by calling the high school at 890-5656.

The students will be raking leaves and hauling yard debris, she said. They will focus first on the yards of the elderly and disabled but are willing to help anyone.

Health meeting scheduled

The Kansas Health Policy Authority is planning a return visit to Goodland on its public hearing tour schedule.

Anyone interested is welcome to attend the authority's Community Dialogue Public Hearing from 5 to 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Goodland Public Library, 812 Broadway.

Topics covered will include on overview of the 2008 Legislative Session, a preview of the upcoming Legislative Session and strategizing for meeting the needs of Kansas health consumers.

The Kansas Health Policy Authority is a state agency created through legislation on July 1, 2005. It is a nine-member board, including health care, business and community leaders appointed by the Governor and the Legislature, as well as seven ex-officio members that include State Cabinet Secretaries and the authority's director. The authority held a public hearing in Goodland last year to review the recommendations and gather ideas from the public about how the state should handle health care issues.

Country scenes painted on turkey feathers, animals playing the parts of children, a Bible text depicted through collage, clay art and wooden bowls are all a part of the Carnegie Arts Center's October display.

The focus of the traveling exhibit on display through Oct. 31 is both "text" and "texture," hence the title, TEXTure.

The work in this exhibit is by the artists of the Main ARTery, a cooperative gallery in Ulysses. Because of the wide□ranging techniques, media and styles among the artists in the group, the multi□layered theme, TEXTure, was perfect, allowing them a great deal of flexibility in their interpretation.

The exhibit opened with a reception Sunday at the center. Danny Mangus and his son Devin, a Goodland High School senior, sang and played guitar on hits "Take Me Home, Country Roads" by John Denver, "King of the Road" by Roger Miller and "All I Have to Do is Dream," a song made famous by the Everly Brothers.

Artwork in the exhibit includes abstract as well as representational pieces in a variety of media: oil/ acrylic painting, watercolor, mixed media collage, textile collage, clay sculpture and jewelry.

Many pieces focus on the actual texture of the materials used, while others rely on a subtle depiction of visual texture. Words, letters and quotations play a significant part in several of the works.

This show is an exciting opportunity for viewers to have their perceptions challenged, both through the different ways in which textures are observed and depicted and through the use of letters and words for their inherent texture as well as for their more familiar ability to communicate thought.

The Main ARTery, located on Main Street in Ulysses, opened in 2006, and is currently home to 13 artists from southwest Kansas and the Oklahoma panhandle. Owned by Jeani Gustafson, who also runs a framing business on the premises, the gallery/art studio rotates and changes exhibits several times a year, with special events, challenges and receptions planned every few months to keep the arts alive in the southwest corner of Kansas.

Devin Mangus (above left) and his father Danny Mangus entertained Carnegie Arts Center visitors at the opening reception for TEXTure, a display by artists from the Main ARTery, a cooperative gallery in Ulysses, Sunday. "I did not!" and "Did too!" (below), pastels of giraffes behaving as children, by Tracy Teeter, are among the works displayed. "Horse and Child Turkey Feather" (left), by Delores Drake, a painting on a turkey feather, is also on display. The works will be up through Oct. 31. Photos by Sharon Corcoran/The Goodland Star-News painting; Mike Blackard, turned Dee Drake, oil paintings; Jeani drawings and oil paintings; Tracy Buffalo Guys and Homeland Real wood; Laura Brown, gourds and Gustafson, stoneware; Karen Hol- Teeter, watercolor and pastel; and Estate. Featured artists are Terry Ander- jewelry; Carol Burnum, water- liday, collage; George Phillippy, Jeanie Tomson, fiber collage.

son, oil paintings; Janice Baldwin, color; Tracy Caffey, silver jewelry; photography; Cheryl Poland, ink

The exhibit is sponsored by the Extension office seeks conservation nominations

All health insurance purchased by the state is now combined under the authority, including publicly funded programs (Medicaid, State Children's Health Insurance Program, and Medikan) and the State Employee Health Benefits Plan.

The authority is responsible for compiling and distributing uniform health care data in order to provide health care consumers, payers, providers and policy makers with information regarding trends in the use and cost of health care for improved decision making.

The Conservation Awards Pro- ing soil conservation award winners windbreaks which provide protecgram committee is seeking nominations for this year's conservation its capabilities, completeness of awards and windbreak awards programs. These programs are sponsored by the agricultural committee of the Kansas Bankers As- of practices and special practices sociation. Last year awards were made to Perry and Jan Lohr for windbreak and Larry Gutsch for soil conservation

The purpose of this program is to stimulate a greater interest in the conservation of the agricultural resources of Kansas, said Dana Belshe, Sunflower Extension District agriculture agent, by giving recognition to farmers and landowners who have made outstanding progress in the establishment of soil and water conservation on their farms.

Points to be considered in select-corrections

The Goodland Star-News will correct any mistake or misunderstanding in a news story. Please call our office at (785) 899-2338 to report errors. We believe that news should be fair and factual. We want to keep an accurate record and appreciate you calling to our attention any failure to live up to this standard.

Move-in Ready For Your Family!

Nice home with 2 large bedrooms, nice living room and efficient kitchen, utility room all on one floor! Double car garage and small yard, close to downtown! Ready to move in! Call for your showing today!

include use of land according to conservation plan, balance of farm enterprise, quality of conservation work completed and maintenance unique to the farming operation. The windbreak award considers Refreshments Served!

all day long!

Save on Glasses & Sunglasses

tion from damaging winds for residential or other structures, livestock or fields. Windbreaks should be a minimum of three years old. Points to be considered in selecting award winners include windbreak design, management, location, density and length.

Vision Source!

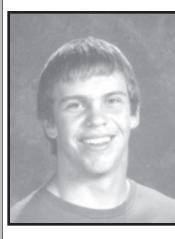

1002 Broadway

(785) 899-3654

person in the county. They should presented at the Soil Conservation be sent to the Sunflower Exten- District's Annual meeting on Monsion District, Goodland office by day, Feb. 9.

Nominations can be made by any Friday, Oct. 24. The awards will be student of the week

Name: Tanner Oharah Parents: Dean and Daylene Oharah Grade: 12 Age: 17

We've nominated this student because: Tanner is an outstanding leader in the classroom. He is also one of the best young bass vocalists in the state of Kansas. He has a very bright future.

Student Comment: My favorite part of school is the musical, and my favorite subjects are music and art. I will always remember talking with the janitors after hours while I work on the musical set.

Activities involved in at school: The musical, X-Pressos, Marching Band, wrestling, Art Club, musical set constructing and Science Olympiad.

My choices of movies, music, books and games (be specific): My favorite movies are Left Behind, Kingdom of Heaven and Braveheart. My favorite music is Beach Boys, DC Talk and Reliant K. My favorite books are the Narnia series and Jesus Freaks.

After graduation, I intend to: Further my education in music and mission work and pursue my interests in climbing, kayaking and mountain biking.

And 10 years from now, I think I'll be...:

content doing whatever God wants me to be doing.

Favorite Quote: "We must go beyond text books, go out into the bypaths and untrodden depths of the wilderness and travel and explore and tell the world the glories of our journey. -John Harper Franklin

Coordinating health & health care for a thriving Kansas KANSAS HEALTH POLICY AUTHORITY

Welcome Dr. Philip Beggs to

Vision Source of Goodland

Thursday, October 16th

Come & Go Open House from 4–6 p.m.

Register for Door Prizes!

THE KANSAS HEALTH POLICY AUTHORITY AN OPEN DIALOGUE

The Future of Kansas Health Reform: 2009 and Beyond

Tuesday, October 14, 2008 5:00 p.m. – 6:30 p.m. Goodland Public Library 812 Broadway Goodland, KS 67735

In attendance will be: KHPA Executive Director Marcia Nielsen, PhD, MPH Sherman County Community Partners Kansas Health Policy Authority staff members

Topics covered will include: An Overview of the 2008 Legislative Session A Preview of the 2009 Legislative Session Strategizing for Meeting the Needs of Kansas Health Consumers

> Emily Nickel Kansas Health Policy Authority 785-296-4584