

Homecoming parade, rally, bonfire spark spirit

Senior Parents of the Cowboys and Cowgirls arrived at Cowboys Stadium in a special bus (right) with some of the parents riding on top of the bus in the parade down Main Ave. The senior mothers were dressed as the Devils and the fathers were decked out in Cowboys jerseys. During the skit the she Devils paraded out in formation and took a page out of Bill Murray's "Stripes" (1981) with their routine before the fathers ran out to drive them off the field.

The Cowboys skit involved the "Man Cave" where Devils plotted to beat the Cowboys, but the Cowboys roared in to destroy the Man Cave and take the Devils prisoner. Later the remnants of the Man Cave were fed to the bonfire (below) by the Cowboys and Paul Starr threw a large piece into the fire.

Parade floats included one for the FCCLA and Brennen Clouse who is the national president this year (below right).
