

Army Field Band, Soldier's Chorus wow crowd

Col. Thomas H. Palmatier, commander and conductor, spoke to the audience before the concert.

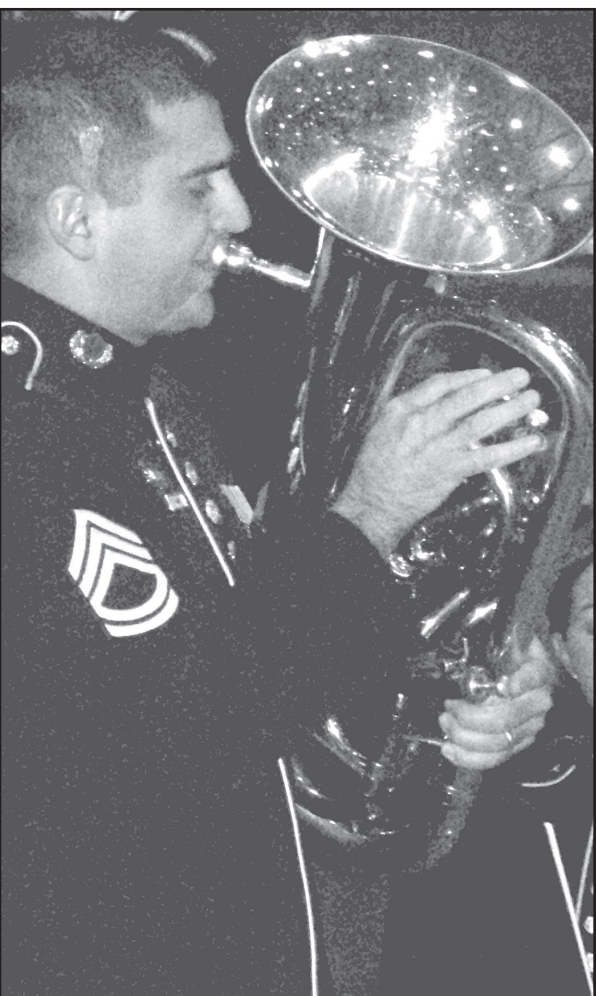

Goodland High School band members joined the U.S. Army Field Band for "The Washington Post" march during the concert Thursday. Each student joined the section of the band wearing different colored shirts including Tanner Oharah, (above right) on trombone, Tyler Jones, drums (top) Andrew Shores, tuba (center) and Devin Mangus (center left) and Brendan Fulcher, on trumpet. Others include Katelyn Lammers on french horn, LeRoy Prine, clarinet, J.P. McCool on trombone and BreAnna Nemechek on tenor sax.

Goodland High School band students watched the Army Field Band concert Thursday at Max Jones Fieldhouse, and waited for their chance to join the band for a special performance of The Washington Post march. The nine high school band students were made honorary members of the Army Field Band for their participation.

Sgt. 1C Christopher Sarangoulis was the euphonium soloist for "Pantomime" by Philip Sparke.

A small section of the Army Field Band were the soloists for a special collection of jazz songs for A Walk Down Bourbon Street.