Water plan would save city millions in interest in trying to stretch this out.

"The water lines on main are not addressed in this project. I agree we need to make an adjustment in water rates.

"Loaning ourselves the money is the right way to go, and looking at paying the other loan off would give us more options."

Gerber said the commissioners could sort of back into the rates, and asked what the members felt people would be able to pay monthly. He included several options including a base water meter increase and an option of increasing the water meter rate plus an increase in the usage cost.

He said a conference call he and Volk had with Ransom, a company of everybody. doing water rate surveys for the state, had recommended water rates about $40 a month.

He said the state recommendation for figuring water bills is based on the past few years. 2 percent of the median income of a person in the town. He said based on on the base rate and one on conthe current median income in Goodland that would be $60 a month.

and $1.07 for consumption of 100 cubic feet.

"I think we need some sort or rate adjustment," Gerber said. "We need to be fair to the people and we need to keep improving the system."

Billinger said he likes the base rate increase because that takes care

Daniels said he likes the base better than trying to raise money through consumption especially when the usage has gone down in Dechant suggested a bump both sumption.

Commissioner John Garcia said Currently residents pay $7.60 a he felt people are being conscienmonth as a base for a water meter tious and looking at where they can cut back, and increasing the base easier to plug into your budget – everyone pays – think from a financial standpoint it is better.

Dechant suggested starting with an increase of the base to $12 a month.

Volk checked and the city owes bring in about $126,000 a year.

$1.457 million on the other water loan. The interest is 3.74 percent plus the service fee of .35 percent makes the total 4.09 percent. The city could save about 3 percent.

Billinger said if the city pays the first loan off as well as the new water project it would take less to service the total and the city could put more in for maintenance.

Gerber said the two loans together would be about $6.3 million, but the total would depend on the final cost of the new water project.

Garcia said he could agree with raising the base to $11 or $12 a month, which would be about a $4 to $5 increase.

Gerber said a raise of $5 would Daniels said he did not have a problem with raising the base to $14.50 to give them more for improvements.

"I would like to keep it a bit lower," Billinger said. Garcia said he felt it would be easy to explain and beneficial to the customers to keep it down to the $5.

loan would give the city $185,000 to put toward the repayment, and with the $5 increase the city could repay the reserves and have about $50,000 to put into further improvements and maintenance.

Dechant agreed it would give the city something to work with and be able to tackle other water issues such as Main Ave.

for the FAA.

Commissioner Annette Fairbanks said she was fine with raising the base to $12 and keeping the usage rate as it is.

"If the city was not financially able we would have to pay another $1.3 million in interest," Dechant said.

"I am glad we are having this Billinger said paying off the first conversation," Gerber said. "We are furnishing a legitimate product and should not be afraid to tell the people we are doing a good job."

"I think the public will be behind this," Daniels said, "as it will much lower than what we originally talked about."

Gerber said he would run the numbers and bring back a recommendation.

about what else might be out there for the future. He said most of the programs are optional and are nothing mandatory.

The total cost for the city for the year is $551,021, Krull said, and told the commissioners to expect a refund from the prior year of about $100,000 because of the lower than expected usage.

"I plan to be proactive with insurance," Gerber said. "I feel we owe it to the taxpayers to be reasonable and to do as much as possible to keep our employees healthy.

"We have been somewhat lucky, but Mary Volk, city clerk, has worked to stay on top of this program."

Krull said the city will always have some usage and cannot help it when a person is injured, but it is better to keep on top of the program.

He said the city employees can use several on-line program for things like a wellness plan or stop smoking help plus others.

commissioners would have to work 30 hours a week

Commissioner John Garcia made the motion to approve the insurance renewal. Commissioner Annette Fairbanks seconded and the motion passed 5-0 with Mayor Josh Dechant and Commissioners Rick Billinger and Daniels voting in favor.

In other business the commissioners:

• Approved a bid from Midwest Mailing Systems of Kearney, Neb. for $11,228 for a folder and inserter machine. Gerber had recommended the middle bid of the three received find one. and said the city had budgeted $11,000 for the machine and was confident the small additional could be found in another budget item.

Gerber said the machine would help the city transition from the current monthly billing cards to a full sheet bill, and it would allow Volk said she had more than one person tell her about problems with the machine.

Billinger asked if there was anyone local who could provide the same machine.

Volk said she had checked locally and no one was able to furnish a similar machine.

Dechant said he was in the market for a similar machine for where he works, and was finding it hard to Billinger asked if the bid was sent out locally. Volk said it was sent to everyone on the local list.

Billinger said he was surprised because he did not get one in the chain link.
