The Goodland High School Auditorium had a near full house for the music program given by the kindergarten on Tuesday night.

The kids sang and moved to the music. They sang about America and Kansas as well as a song from Halloween and Christmas. Director

Char Avila said the kids got to pick the seasonal numbers.

There were songs about living together, manners, days of the weeks and staying away from strangers.

Students from Kim Artzer's class are Olivia Bassett, Rhiannon Cavacio, Nicole Eli, Rilynn Frazier, Asaph Garcia, Nathan Gillming, Eli Greene, James Isham, Brooklyn

Tech College Circle K club off to great start

The Goodland Kiwanis Club is proud to have the opportunity to put together a Circle K at the Northwest Kansas Technical College.

This Student Leadership Project just started with visiting with the college on Feb. 17, to see if there was a need. The college students felt there was a need so the Kiwanis Club members went to work to start recruiting members to be on the Charter.

With the size of the Northwest Tech they needed 15 members. The Circle K club is chartering with 21 members, said Brad Schields, Kansas District Division 12 Lt. Governor.

The Northwest Tech Circle K started out with a bang, he said. The members have stepped up and are going to help the Goodland Kiwanis Club with one of their fundraisers, the flag project. This project has turned into a big one with two years running; the club is up close to 450 flags.

The student's first service project was to help with the town's Easter Egg Hunt held on Friday afternoon on the college campus.

After all those plans were made the students decided to attend the District Convention in Topeka.

Five Colleges were represented with 27 students. The students all had a great time and were well received because the Northwest Tech students came home with the new Governor Danielle Cline, Lt. Governor Daniel Gomez and Secretary/Treasure Jonathon Johanson.

The officers will make great leaders for the District and are in great hands with the Goodland Kiwanis Club, Schields said.
