

Another successful fair has come and gone

Another successful Northwest Kansas District Free Fair has come and gone, and all those responsible for hours and hours of volunteer effort should be awarded big purple ribbons! Everyone from the Fair Board members to those who helped in anyway with the home owned carnival should be proud.

If Board President Steve Duell and wife Colleen were paid by the hour for the work they do all year around, all Sherman County taxpayers would be broke.

Hats off also to Dana Belshe and his staff at the extension office for coordinating the many events at the fair. As expected, the fair was superb again this year.

I wish it were possible for someone interested in each department of the fair to write a piece for the paper describing the significance of the many exhibits of interest.

While I enjoy them all, I write only for the department of growing things. And again this summer, garden and flower exhibits were especially good, proving once again that some of the best gardeners live right here.

The 4-H vegetable display section was full again this year. It is great to see the younger gardeners exhibiting their effort to grow a few of the things they enjoy eating, under the guidance of course of their parents.

Sierra Vandiver showed us that you can raise nearly perfect cantaloupe out here on the high plains with her grand champion entry. Sidney Winston displayed a nice head of cabbage and numerous other quality vegetables. And Ella Ihrig's onion display was most deserving of the award she received.

Over in the open class, Marty Melia won top honors with a gorgeous exhibit of carrots. Jean had many other quality entries again this year, and if there would have been an overall award in open class gardening this year, Jean surely would have won.

If you visited the fair flower display section this year, you just had to be impressed! The many awards won by Anita Coleman, a master gardener, should have come as no suprise to those who have seen her yard over on West 9th Street. The lady simply knows how to do it and her accomplishments with container gardening are well known.

I had a few exhibits in open class vegetables again this year and I was satisfied with the results. I've had better years, but generally speaking, my stuff stacked up pretty well. I was disappointed with receiving only a red ribbon on my plate of ripe tomatoes, which I thought were really nice, which they were. But apparently the judge saw something that wasn't right. And so the tomato display of my great-grandson Cole beat me out for the blue ribbon! Some days it just doesn't pay to get up in the morning.

And now, we can give our undivided attention to the canning and freezing responsibilities that a large garden demands.

Late summer days present new opportunities for extending the many delights of the garden.
