obituary

A. P. Vohs

A. P. Vohs, 83, Siloam Springs, Ark., 1946 Edson High School graduate, died Saturday, Jan. 28, 2012, at Willard Walker Hospice Home in Fayetteville, Ark.

He was born Sept. 6, 1928, the only son of Albert Peter Vohs and Golda Irene (Mann) Vohs in McDonald. He was raised on a farm near Edson and attended school there. He rented his first 320 acres of land when he was 14, and continued farming with his father and also operated a Grade A dairy.

On June 15, 1947, he and Darline Roe of Oberlin were married. After he became a Christian, he organized and directed Goodland Youth for Christ and Gideons International became a part of his ministry. He helped organize the St. Francis Gideon Camp.

The couple moved to the St. Paul Bible College in Minnesota in 1952 and he was ordained to the ministry in 1955, then became pastor of Faith Bible Church in St. Paul. They later moved to Denver, where he attended the University of Denver. In 1958, the family moved to Greeley, Colo., where he attended The University of Northern Colorado, earning a bachelor's degree in elementary education and later a master's degree in psychology and guidance. While living in Greeley, he became director of Greeley Youth for Christ and started a Sunday School in the Big Thompson Canyon below Estes Park.

He was a graduate assistant at the University of Denver and at Northern Colorado. His first teaching position was at Lone, Colo., where he was principal and teacher in the upper elementary grades.

The family moved to Prairie Village in 1961, where he joined the faculty of Calvary Bible College, also serving as dean of men. He began pursuing a doctorate in education at the University of Missouri in Kansas City and completed that degree in administration and higher education at the University of Arkansas in 1970.

The couple's last move was to Siloam Springs, where he served at John Brown University as assistant professor of teacher education, director of audio visuals, director of admissions and supervisor of student teachers. He also taught at Northeastern State University at Tahlequah, Okla., in the graduate school, and State College in the Fayetteville West Campus. He served as interim principal at the Gravette High School and principal of the elementary school in 1988-89. He pastored churches in Arkansas, Oklahoma and Colorado.

He owned the Piano and Organ Studios in Fayetteville for 17 years and the Bible Bookstore in Siloam Springs. He was a member of the Kiwanis Club, Chamber of Commerce, Ministerial Alliance and Planning Commission in Siloam Springs.

Preceding him in death was his parents and a sister, Elaine Rauscher.

Survivors include his wife of the home; two sons, Evan (Dean) Vohs and Randy (Connie) Vohs, and a daughter, Jan Potter, all of Siloam Springs; an aunt, Jo Mann of Goodland; two brothers-in-law, Bob Schimon of Carrier, Okla. and John Odle of Towanda; nine grandchildren; and nine great-grandchildren.

A celebration of his life was held Thursday, Feb. 2, 2012, at the First Baptist Church in Siloam Springs. The Rev. Gary Osburn officiated, and a private burial was held at Oak Hill Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Gideons International, Box 273, Siloam Springs, Ark. 72761, or the Siloam Springs High School Scholarship Fund, 700 N. Progress Avenue, Siloam Springs, Ark., 72761. Arrangements were by Wasson Funeral Home in Siloam Springs.
