Science fair fills Grant gym

The Grant Junior High Science Fair filled the gym on April 14 with projects that explored lots of fun and different applications of science.

Principal Jim Mull said he thought it was the most successful science fair he had seen. Everyone in the eighth grade class had a project on display.

The projects were put up on a Thursday and were judged on Friday by science teacher Terry Daise, who was in charge of the program.

Parents were invited to come see the projects and there were many visitors talking to the young scientists and admiring the projects.

Winners were Aaron Deeds, first place, for his sun stove; Marisa Acuff second with her project "Everyone know it's windy;" Ben Davis third with a project on dog color blindness; Chris Irvin and his project on Vitamin C, "Nothing but the fruit," was fourth; and Lemon Power by Heidi Yonkey was fifth.

A special award for the best display board went to Jessica Swager.

The top 10 display boards were by Jake Kling, Andrea Wolak, Jonathan McClung, Grant Wilkens, Halli Stone, Andrew Philbrick, Renea Reasoner, Britt Zwegardt, Amanda Amthor and Swager.

Honorable mention went to Forrest Trachsel, Ren Scherling, Eryn Topliff, Jance McKee, Lauren Abernathy, Levi Coon, Josh Doke, Andrew Miller, Ashley Christians, Tanner Smith and Sammie Raymer.

Goodland woman hurt in wreck

Amber Young of 1304 Montana Ave. was driving a 1996 Dodge four-door sedan northbound when one of the tires blew, causing the car to swerve into the west ditch and roll onto its roof. The Kansas Highway Patrol reported that Young was wearing her seatbelt. She had minor injuries and was released after treatment.

Leader Kim Roeder thanked everyone for making the ski trip a big success and reminded everyone they need to turn their money in ASAP. Then talked about the upcoming 4-H days and talent night.

For the program Paige Phillips did a demonstration on How to make a friendship bracelet. Randyll's project talk was on foil art, Ricky talked about fire drills for health and safety. Andrea played Ode to Joy on her guitar.

The meeting was adjourned for recreation by Tanicia Arnold who lead the group in a game of cotton ball relay.
