

Cinco de Mayo

Six-graders from North Elementary (above left) looked at a display focusing on quinceanera, the celebration of a girl's 15th birthday which marks her transformation to a young woman. This was the fifth year Cinco de Mayo has been celebrated by Goodland students at Max Jones Fieldhouse. High school Spanish students May Davis and Charles Lammers (in chairs, above) told another group of sixth-graders about the history of Mexico and of Cinco de Mayo. Chris Lovington (below left), of the Northwest Kansas Prevention Center, served Mexican cuisine to a group of students and told them folk stories while they ate. A pinata (below) awaited its fate.
