

Events of last two weeks unbelievable

Another week and just a few days remain until June is swallowed up, and we'll start working on the last half of 2004.

It's hard to believe what has happened the past couple of weeks. I got several phone calls that were telling me that some of the community are recovering from major surgery.

A former resident, Dorocile Foust, mother of Mike (Jeanette), is temporarily staying in Wheat Ridge Acres during her recovery the next several weeks.

Dorlyne Amack is also home at her apartment at 1334 Cattletrail in her spell of recovery following her out-of-town surgery. Get well wishes to these folks and others waiting for health to return.

Another phone call informed me of the death of Dorothy Boardman, mother of Jim (Sheri) Mull. She had been living in the Lawrence nursing home for almost a year. Her services were on the 21st with burial in Lawrence. My condolences to the Mulls and Dorothy's other children.

One more call informed me of the death of Annette (Jerry) Fairbanks' parent. I hope these will be enough for a while. May all of the families and friends find peace and help in putting their lives back together with the help of the Almighty.

The families of the three killed in that horrible accident are doing as best as possible during these most trying days as they try to pick up the pieces and get on with the daily living.

At times, I still think I'll wake up and find it has just been a horrible nightmare. No such luck. Then I remember the Beynons coming back, and reality sets in. They came Tuesday afternoon, and I was taken out for the evening meal by them.

They took me to the Fieldhouse for the services and then returned home to Aurora. I just couldn't bring myself to do more than that, but as time goes on, it will help me to remember them as I knew them. I get very depressed when I think about it, and the tears come again. With God's help, we'll hopefully return to more normal days.

My sister Martha called to find out why I missed calling her. When

I told her, she said they knew something was wrong, and they had to find out if something had happened to me.

When she knew the facts, she too was unhappy and wanted me to express their condolences to Mary's family, as she was the only one they had ever met and knew.

They are doing as well as can be with all their problems. Travel is out, and that was why I didn't want them on the road when I was in the hospital with my growling ribs. I'm getting better every day, at least I was able to put rollers, in split times, in my hair.

I don't think our temperatures will stay as cool as it has been. We'll catch up with the hotter days before the summer is over. The reports say moisture has been close to three or more inches since the first of the month. As I started on this, it was very stormy looking, and I could hear of some rain falling outside.

Bud and Pat Perrey will be having some additional therapy out of town the next few weeks. I hope all goes well, and they'll soon be back. I sure do miss them.

The people next door, Ana, Jonathan and Gary, have gotten back safe and sound from their trips. It seems they all had a very good time.

Another caller told me of a booboo in my last issue. Clare Marie Fixsen said it was a granddaughter, not grandson, that graduated in Texas. It was son Lewis' daughter Tiffany. Sorry for the booboo. Just proves I'm not perfect. Forgive me for my error, and I hope no more will be made.

I don't know if Isabelle Hellerud is home or still in the hospital. Get well wishes to her.

I have been trying to sort through drawers, cupboards, boxes, etc., but it takes more time since I have to do it sitting down. The stuff is beginning to get smaller, and I've even thrown out some.

Maybe daylight will soon be seen on these areas. Boy can that stuff gather when one can't do any lifting or use one arm. Hopefully it will be more normal in a few weeks. I'm feeling better each day and soon will be closer to being okay. Thank God for that to happen.

I will close and get this ready for the office. I got it done in one sitting, but the ribs are really growling. See you all next issue, and pray no tragedy will have occurred until then.

Ten area students listed on national honor roll

Ten area high school students were listed on the 2003/04 National Honor Roll. Students who may qualify were asked to submit information on their grade point average, interests, activities and future goals.

Only students with a B or better average are eligible for the list. Of those on this year's list, 66 percent averaged A-minus or better, and 34 percent averaged B through B-plus. National Honor Roll has set aside $100,000 to be shared among 100 of its qualifying inductees from the 2003/04 school year. All members are entitled to compete for one of these National Honor Roll Awards for Academic Achievement, which will be awarded in September.

Students can also notify as many admissions offices of as many schools as they wish that they have been inducted into the honor roll. The student's biography is sent to the colleges.
