Fireworks best enjoyed from safe distance

DEAR ABBY: With Independence Day approaching, I'm asking for your help in reminding your millions of readers about the danger of fireworks, especially to the eyes. Each year during Fourth of July celebrations, thousands of adults and children are seriously injured as a result of fireworks and pyrotechnic devices.

Many of the injuries affect eyesight, permanently damaging – and in some cases blinding — the victims.

In response, the American Optometric Association (AOA) urges people to refrain from using fireworks and to instead enjoy professional displays.

About two-thirds of fireworksrelated injuries are burns. Most of the burns involve the hands, eyes, head and face. Almost half of the to protect their eyes by avoiding victims are under 15 years of age, and 75 percent of them are male.

The most frequent cause of fireworks injuries requiring trips to the emergency room is sparklers. (Did you know that sparklers can heat up to 1,800 degrees, enough to melt gold?) A sparkler can also literally poke someone's eye out.

This may come as a surprise, but bystanders are also not safe from injury. Data from the U.S. Eye Injury Registry reveals that half of all fireworks injuries occur to bystand-

So, on this Fourth of July, members of the AOA urge your readers fireworks and enjoying professional displays from a safe distance. DR. WESLEY PITTMAN, PRESIDENT, A.O.A.

DEAR DR. PITTMAN: Thank you for the timely reminder. Although many people, young and old, regard fireworks as harmless fun, the facts show otherwise.

According to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, during 2002, an estimated 8,800 people were treated in hospital ERs for injuries associated with fireworks.

An estimated 20 percent to 25 percent of fireworks injuries are to the eyes — mostly contusions and lacerations — and most of those are ex showed signs that he was movcaused by firecrackers, rockets and sparklers.

'blast" on the Fourth of July — but do it in a way that will protect yourselves and your families.

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 and cur- TIONS rently involved with a guy from school.

The guy that I was with for a year and a half (my ex) wants to marry me. I still have feelings for him, but not like I used to.

I like my new boyfriend and don't really want to leave him. When my ex and I broke up, it was only supposed to be "a little time apart." My
