

Photo contest entries still being added

Tina Goodwin, Carnegie Arts Center director, hung entries for the Flatlander Photo Contest on Friday. One of the prints is a black-and-white photo by Teddi Bogenhagen of a girl with a feather boa that has blue tinting on the boa. The arts center is accepting entries throughout the month and will have an open house for the display Saturday, Sept. 25, during the Flatlander Fall Festival.

Seed dealer trained

Ken Palmgren of Edson attended Fontanelle Hybrids Stalkholder Dealer training in Breckenridge, Colo.

The training, Aug. 13 and 14, was to update Stalkholder dealers on the company's latest products and focused on High Cycle by Fontanelle YieldGard Plus corn hybrids.

Sales Manager Steve Pike said the company believes the protection offered by resistance to European corn borer and resistance to corn rootworm in the product gives the customer many benefits, including an easier harvest and better yields. He said it is critical that Stalkholder dealers be able to explain these benefits to customers.

Stalkholders are the company's top dealers, he said. To earn the designation, they commit to reaching goals beyond other dealerships, and in return, the company commits additional resources to them, one of which is special training.

Grant students get Citizenship, Athlete of the Year and Mustang of the Year awards

Each year two students at Grant Junior High are chosen for Citizenship Awards, plus an Athlete of the Year and a Mustang of the Year.

Heidi Yonkey and Josh Doke were chosen for the Citizenship

Award in May, and the Goodland

Elks presented each with a $50 savings bond. Their names appear on a plaque in the trophy case at the school.

Principal Jim Mull said the winners of the Citizenship Award are chosen from nominations by the school staff.

"It is an impressive list of winners over the years," Mull said. "In the 13 years I have been here, we haven't had one who hasn't been a good choice. They may not have all gone to college or been famous, but they are all good citizens."

The Citizenship Award is a Kansas State High School Activities Association program, Mull said. It can be awarded each year to one boy and one girl.

"There is a list of qualifications the students are judged on," Mull said. "After all the nominations are in, I have the staff vote on three names and the top ones get the award."

Citizenship is judged on reverence for the flag, tolerance of others, academics and respect for others, Mull said.

The other top awards at Grant are Athlete of the Year and Mustang of the Year.

Andrea Wolak was named the Athlete of the Year and Doke was named Mustang of the Year.

These awards are based on participation in six sports for the Athlete of the Year and six of eight sports for Mustang of the Year, a grade level of 2.5 or better, attendance and general contribution to the sports program.

They are voted on by the athletic director and coaches.
