Murderer sentenced to 19 years

By Kathryn Gurfinkel

The Goodland Star-News The Brewster man who pled guilty last month to the second-degree murder and kidnapping of his wife was sentenced to almost 19 years in prison Wednesday.

Lanny Bevington, 33, admitted to shooting his wife, 27-year-old Kerrie, on Dec. 28.

She was found dead of a shotgun count, second-degree murder.

Bevington

wound to the head at 7 a.m. on Dec. 29 by her father, Tom Aschenbrenner, former Brewster fire chief. He found her sitting in the cab of a pickup outside the Bevington home about 3 1/2 miles south of Brewster, just inside Sherman County.

District Judge Jack Burr sentenced Bevington to 176 months on the first kidnapping, Bevington was given 51 months, with Judge Burr taking the requested "downward durational departure." The sentences are to run consecutively for a total of 227 months, 18 years 11 months. Although County Attorney Bonnie Selby was out of town for the hearing, Deputy District Attorney Scott Showalter was representing the county in court.

Family of the victim appeared in years, for murder and 155 months,

On the second count, aggravated court with Juanita Aschenbrenner, 12.9 years, for kidnapping. Kerrie's mother, giving an emotional statement.

"You stalked, tormented and then killed my daughter," she said, addressing Bevington directly. "You not enough." are a predator. Dangerous animals such as you need to be caged for life."

Aschenbrenner asked Judge Burr to give Bevington the maximum consecutive sentences, and at least give him 176 months, 14.6

"I believe Lanny deserves at least the minimum sentence for the crimes he has committed," she said. "Eighteen years with parole at 16 is

When that parole does come, Aschenbrenner said she is determined to be there and keep Bevington off the streets.

'When you do come up for parole," she said to Bevington, "you will see my face again."

County approves 1.3 mill increase

By Tom Betz

The Goodland Star-News The property taxes for many Sherman county residents will actually go down a bit next year despite a raise of 1.318 in the mill levy.

Sherman County commissioners approved the proposed budget Tuesday, and the property tax will raise 2.25 percent to 59.991 mills, but with a decrease of 1.622 mills for Rural Fire District 1 the total will drop .3 mills to 63.515.

County Clerk Janet Rumpel said none of the funds jumped up very much, and she put $60,000 into the bond payment fund if the commissioners are considering repairing the bricks on the courthouse, the west wall of the Bastille, work on the top of the Southwest Bell historic building and the roof at the fairgrounds.

She told the commissioners it might be possible to put all these into one bond issue.

Another area where there was an increase was for asphalt in the road and bridge budget. The commissioners have been talking about the need to keep up the chip sealing on Hwy 24, and the paved section of 8th Street west of K-27. County Treasurer Shelby Miller said the sales tax receipts for the year are up, with the county portion of the one percent bringing in $45,075 in July up from $34,552 the same month last year. In the first seven months this year Miller said the sales tax collections have been $269.426, which is $31,670 ahead of the $237,756 for last year. She said this year is $1,669 ahead of the $267,753 collected in the seven months of 2002. The county budget for next year includes increases in health care services with $35,000 for mental health, $15,000 for hospice, $45,000 for developmental services and $45,000 for the Good Samaritan Center to help with the new sprinkler system being required by the state fire marshal. Before the commissioners approved the budget Rick Reeser, director of Good Samaritan Center told them he had received an estimate of $98,000 on the new sprinkler system. He said the sprinkler system is to be installed by April, and that the present large main coming into the building should be large enough to handle the sprinkler expansion. "That is a good thing," he said, 'and will save about $25,000." Reeser thanked the commissioners for their help on the recent sewage contamination problem and said it has been cleaned up. "We are glad to have this behind us," he said, "and we can move for-

School board terminates coach's contract

By Greg Stover

The Goodland Star-News The Goodland school board voted coaching contract with the district.

The board voted 5-0, with members Ron Schilling and Fritz Doke absent, to adopt a resolution declaring the intent to terminate Diehl's supplemental contract. That contract covers his position as head football coach, assistant baseball coach and as yearbook advisor. The resolution reads: "Mr. Diehl bail and under bond contract not to has not performed the services re- enter school district property or conquired under the contract since Au- tact anyone associated with the disgust 30, due to alleged violations of trict including students. He will the law which impact his ability to have a preliminary court hearing on perform the contract."

Jeff Mason, the district's attorney, Monday to terminate Tony Diehl's handled the delivery of the notice to Diehl. Diehl has the option to request a hearing before the board but must submit a written request to the clerk of the board by Saturday. The hearing, if held, will be next Friday at 10:30 a.m. at the district office

Diehl was arrested late Aug. 28 on suspicion of arson after a fire at his home earlier that evening. Diehl is out on

Oct. 25. He remains on paid administrative leave of his teaching duties at Goodland High School where he was an English teacher.

Architect Glen Strait of Colby briefed the board about a proposed design and cost estimate for the high school greenhouse. The plan calls for a structure 11 feet by 66 feet that will run along the east side vocal music room in the northeast corner of the second floor.

The plan includes two 30 inch wide tables about 15 feet long in the center of the greenhouse for student work areas. The north end of the greenhouse will have a room for heating and cooling units, and storage space. The plan calls for the construction of an additional wall in the music room, the installation of a door and the relocation of the double-doors leading to the room.

Strait said the estimated cost of the greenhouse, including materials. would be around $140,000. Some of the board members said the cost was much higher than anticipated and further discussion of the project was needed before continuing with it.

The high school science department began discussing the idea for a greenhouse last year as a place for students to work on plant-growing projects and storage of project materials. It was proposed that if built, the greenhouse be dedicated to science teacher Christine Williams
