With this order, they also give three presents — a cake and bread box, a receipt book and their catalogues.

The cake box probably costs them 15 cents; any grocer will give you a receipt book and the catalogue

today in history

they furnish free to anyone who will send them 15 cents “to help pay the postage.”

Now, if you buy this assortment of groceries, they ship the catalogue with the other goods, and you pay the freight, thus saving them a few cents more than the cake box costs them.

The prices of the same articles, at our regular every day prices — we don’t consider them very great bargains, and neither do you — and we will sell them to you before and after November 30 and Guarantee Every Article better than those from the catalogue for a TOTAL of $4.70. And you see the Goods before you buy — and you get the Goods when you pay and sometimes you get the goods a good long time before you pay. It is more satisfactory, and it pays to trade at home. Donly & Scott

November 13, 1904: Our Home Merchants — Their Enterprise and Activity Merits all ‘Home Trade’ — The merchants of Goodland are more enterprising and up-to-date than ever before.

They not only keep the right goods, but they are marked with the right prices, so that even in point of assortment and value, it does not pay to send away for anything you want.

Donly & Scott, the grocers, proved to you in last week’s paper, for instance, that your groceries can be bought in Goodland cheaper than in Chicago, with freight added.

It is always more satisfactory to trade at home; you see what you are getting, know what you are buying; whereas oftimes your purchases abroad are disappointing; substitution is worked on you; and in case you don’t buy, getting your money back is like pulling teeth.

Dawson & Dawson and C.M. Millisack have just recently inaugurated special sales, the former from Nov. 9-12, and the later from 9-19,
